VOL XVII. NO. 83. TOLEDO, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1892. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS.

IN THE BEE TO-DAY

THE WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., July 28, 1892.

The area of high pressure which was central yesterday morning over the extreme northwest has advanced eastward and this morning covers the entire Rocky mountain region.

The area of high pressure over the south Atlantic states has remained stationary, and is decreasing slowly in pressure and magnitude.

There is a trough of low barometric pressure between the two high areas extending from southern Kansas northeastward over the lakes.

As stated yesterday, severe local storms occurred over the central portion of the country, rains having been reported from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, District of Columbia, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Massachusetts. Heaviest falls reported during the 24 hours were as follows: Washington, 1.08 inches; North Platte, 3.12; Des Moines, 1.38, and La Crosse, 2.32.

The temperature has fallen from 5 to 20 degrees as far east as the Mississippi river, ranging from 36 degrees in Montana to 76 at St. Louis. East of the Mississippi river the temperature has remained about stationary, but will become cooler after to-night.

The weather over the country is generally fair and will continue so except where local thunder storms occur.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity during the next 36 hours—Generally fair, with showers; cooler to-night and Friday.

E. A. HANNER. Observer.

Washington, July 28.—The temperature continues high on the Atlantic coast from Massachusetts and the lower lake region southward, but it is slightly cooler in the middle Atlantic states and northern New England. It is from 10 to 20 degrees cooler over Nebraska and adjoining states. The cool wave had moved eastward from Montana to Kansas, Iowa and Wisconsin, attended by general rains and northerly winds. It will probably extend over the central valleys and lake region to-morrow.

Forecast for Ohio—Increased cloudiness with local thunder storms to-night or on Friday; southerly winds; shifting to westerly, probably cooler by Friday night.

For Wisconsin—Showers to-day, followed by clearing weather and generally fair on Friday; cooler in southwest, warmer in northwest portions, northerly winds.

For Michigan—Local showers followed by clearing weather and generally on Friday; cooler in southeast, warmer in northwest portions; northerly winds.

For Indiana and Illinois—Increasing cloudiness, followed by showers to-night or on Friday; generally cooler; southerly winds, becoming variable.

THE HOT WAVE.

Boston, July 28.—The weather has moderated considerably since midnight. The temperature is about 82; cloudy, some indication of showers later.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 28.—The extreme heat is tempered to-day by a breeze. Temperature, 84.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 28.—This is the hottest day of the year in this city and if it were not for a slight breeze it would be unbearable. At 9 o'clock the thermometer indicated a temperature of 96 degrees in the shade and at 11:30 it had fallen to 92.

New York, July 28.—The weather continues intensely hot and the deaths and prostrations from the heat seem to be on the increase. The thermometer at 6 a. m. indicated 80, at 9 a. m. 84 and at noon 96.

Washington, July 28.—Yesterday there were nine deaths and numerous prostrations. In the past five days there have been fifty deaths in this city caused primarily by the excessive heat.

RIOT ON A TRAIN.

Exciting Times on the B. & O. Railroad.

More Deluded Workingmen, Bound for Homestead,

Rebel When the Truth Dawns on Them.

More Objectionable Work by Carnegie's Agents.

Locked in the Cars Like Criminals, They Were to be Taken to the Iron Mills Like so Many Cattle—Manhood Assered Itself.

Pittsburg, July 28.—A riot occurred this morning on a Baltimore & Ohio train on which 50 or 60 non-union men were being transported from Cincinnati to Pittsburg to work in the Carnegie works at Homestead.

In the melee one man was stabbed in the forehead with a bayonet in the hands of an armed guard.

Another had his thumb chewed off, and nearly a score of others were badly bruised in an attempt to regain their liberty.

When the train reached Pittsburg there were only twenty-one aboard in addition to the armed guard, the other 35 having escaped from the car between Whitehall station on the Wheeling division, and the depot in this city.

When they left Cincinnati the men did not know they were being taken to Homestead and when they found it out they rebelled.

That is how the riot had its inception.

Joseph Manning is the name of a young man who will make affidavit to these facts.

Manning is a resident of Cincinnati and is about 20 years of age.

He is a printer's apprentice and until last Tuesday was employed on the Enquirer.

He said: "On last Thursday, I answered an advertisement in the Enquirer offering employment at easy labor and good wages. I called at the office of F. W. Nye, 110 Longworth street, and was offered work at Pittsburg. Nye said it was easy and that I would be paid 17 cents an hour and get my first month's board free, and would have three months in which to pay back my car fare.

"No mention was made of Homestead. Yesterday, with 55 others, I started to Pittsburg. There were seven puddlers and a number of steel workers from Covington and Newport, Ky., in the party and they, too, supposed they were to get work in Pittsburg.

"After leaving Cincinnati all the doors were locked and windows fastened down and we were not allowed to open them. Mr. Nye was in charge personally.

"Early this morning when we awoke we were surprised to find both doors to our car guarded by a watchman with a gun on his shoulder.

"We then became suspicious and some of the puddlers sized up the situation and approaching one of the guards, asked:

"'Where are we going to work?'

"'At Homestead,' was the reply.

"The puddlers gathered around the guard and demanded that the doors be unlocked and that they be allowed to leave the car.

"The guard refused to let them pass and then the puddlers jumped on him.

"There Was a Terrible Scene.

"Every man in the car jumped from his seat, some making for the doors, others tried to break through the windows and some got into the fight.

"The guards struck one of the puddlers with the bayonet of his gun and cut a long gash across his forehead.

"In their frantic efforts to get out, the men got into a fight between themselves, and for about half an hour there was perfect reign of terror, and many heads and noses were broken.

"At Whitehall, the guard was thrown from his position and the door was burst open.

"The men commenced to drop off, and they kept dropping off all the way to the city. I escaped in the crowd at the depot. The other men, I suppose, went on to Homestead.

"The guards made no attempt to shoot, but used their guns as clubs. Several of the men were severely injured, one losing a thumb. I do not think a man on the car knew that we were destined for Homestead, for when that place was mentioned they became as frantic as wild men."

Young Manning is now at the Amalgamated association headquarters, and has related his story to the officials. He will this afternoon make affidavit to the above statements, which will probably be used in legal proceedings to prevent the transportation of men under similar circumstances.

TO SIEZE THE ISLANDS.

England is After South Sea Property.

Reported That the Champion is Bound Down on an Important Mission.

San Francisco, July 28.—On July 13, the British war vessel Champion left Honolulu for the southwest. It is reported there that her mission was to seize the Johnson or Cornwallis group of islands in the south sea.

The chief island in the group has been claimed by the Pacific Guano company, of San Francisco, which raised the American flag over it several years ago.

The only explanation of England's action is that the American company has abandoned the island because they have exhausted the guano, and England intends to take possession in order to secure a station for her new cable from New Zealand to Honolulu.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

Jeptha Rucker Will Handle the Affairs of the Macon & Northern.

Atlanta, Ga., July 28.—In the United States court yesterday Judge Newman appointed Jeptha Rucker of Athens, temporary receiver of the Macon & Northern upon the application of bondholders of New York. The road has been operated by the Richmond & Danville and Central of Georgia, jointly, under an arrangement made when the Richmond & Danville controlled the Central. This application came from the Richmond & Danville who have, it is said, just beaten the Central people, who were about to take the same course.

LOW WATER.

A Fearful Boiler Explosion Reported From Texas.

Paris, Tex., July 28.—A fearful boiler explosion took place at a saw mill belonging to Short & Pickering, near Stanley, I. T., 75 miles north of here, yesterday, in which two men were killed outright and four others badly injured, three of whom are expected to die at any moment.

The explosion was caused by the water in the boiler becoming exhausted. The engineer, Lewis Hardin, was torn almost to fragments by lumber. John Brown, the other man killed, was also badly mutilated. The injured are John Bluebell, John Roller, Edward Potter and Joseph Hardin.

FILIBUSTERERS.

No Progress Being Made in the House.

Washington, July 28.—The filibusterers are again at work. The house is now voting on a dilatory motion of Mr. Cummings, of New York, to adjourn until Monday next.

1:30—The roll call disclosed 208 members present and the roll is now being called again on Mr. Cummings' motion to adjourn until Monday.

DIED AT 107.

Fairport, N. Y., July 28.—Wm. Sullivan, probably the oldest man in the state, died here yesterday. He was 107 years old last December, and had never required the services of a physician.

M'KINLEY GOES WEST.

Ohio's Governor Will Make Several Speeches.

State Printing Contracts Awarded—Other News from the Ohio Capital.

Columbus, July 28.—Gov. McKinley left last night on a ten days' political tour of the west. He proceeded directly to Madison, Wis., where he delivers an address on the 29th. Sunday he returns to Chicago to meet the party that is to accompany him through the west, Mrs. McKinley, Executive Clerk Boswell and wife, Mr. Joe Smith, and Mrs. McKinley's maid.

The governor will proceed to Beatrice, Neb., where on the 2d of August he will deliver an address, and from there to Lincoln to speak on the 3rd. He speaks at Omaha the 4th or 5th, thereafter returning to Columbus. Gov. McKinley's mail has been overburdened with invitations to speak throughout the west since it was learned that he intended making a tour. He has not mapped out his return from Omaha, and may make several stops and enlighten the people upon the tariff question.

The miners and operators held a conference yesterday afternoon to consider the dispute as to wages dumpers are entitled to for outside work. Resolutions were adopted providing that when miners work part of a day, dumpers and trimmers put in by the boss to clean up shall receive regular wages paid dumpers and trimmers. When the mine is idle, and dumpers and trimmers are put in to clean up, they shall receive regular outside day wages. The price of driving wet entries is left to mine boss and miners.

Dr. F. B. McNeal, state dairy and food commissioner, is making a new move to enforce the laws prohibiting the adulteration of wines. These laws have not been enforced, but to-day the commissioner appointed W. J. Dilgart to visit the wine-producing counties, and compel the compliance with the provisions of the statutes. Mr. Dilgart will also endeavor to stop the adulterations of beer.

The state printing contracts were finally awarded to-day. Lanning & Co., of Norwalk, getting the bulk of the printing. The Westbote company, of Columbus, received the German printing, and class 5, or that which must necessarily be done here, fell to Myers Bros.

Gov. McKinley to-day granted a pardon to John Lewis, a Columbiana county convict. The pardon was granted for the reason that the prisoner is thought to be on his death bed.

DEATH OF D. W. FULLER

Who Opened Up the Wheeling & Lake Erie Mines.

One of the Best Known Mine Managers in the Country Passes Away at the Toledo Asylum.

The friends of D. W. Fuller, one of the best known mine managers in the country, were surprised and pained yesterday to learn of his death, which occurred at the asylum in this city. Years ago Mr. Fuller commenced railroading as a clerk in the C., B. & Q. office, at Streeter, Ill. He remained with the company for some time, and finally accepted a position as clerk in a large coal operating concern with offices at Streeter. It was then that he found his sphere. He rapidly rose from one responsible position to another until he finally was given full charge of the company's mines, and became an owner of some of them. Some fifteen years ago Mr. Fuller came to Ohio and located mines on the Cleveland & Marietta railroad. When the Wheeling & Lake Erie company had charge of the Cleveland & Marietta property, Mr. Fuller's ability as a mine manager was recognized and they placed in his hands the work of opening up their new coal fields in Jefferson county and other mines on the line of the road. He was also a large owner in the Byesville, Ohio, mines and retained his ownership up to the time of his death.

About two years ago, after a busy life, his health failed and mentally he gave way under the strain. He was a man generally liked by all with whom he met or had dealing and his ability was everywhere recognized.

The remains will be taken to Norwalk where his family resides, for interment.

ELECTRIC CONSOLIDATION.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 28.—The Brush and Thomson-Houston electric light companies of this city and the General Electric company of New York, have agreed upon a consolidation of their interests here and will be united under the name of the Buffalo General Electric company. This step was found necessary to cut down expenses. One of the results will be the extension of the incandescent lighting on a large scale. The capital stock of the new company will be $1,800,000.

GOODWOOD STAKES.

London, July 28.—The race for the Goodwood cup to-day was won by Mr. D. Baird's five-year-old colt, Martagon, by Ben D'Or, out of Tiger Lily. The Duke of Westminster's five-year old brown colt, Blue Green, by Coeruleus, out of Angelica, was second, and Colorado, four-year-old chestnut colt, by George Frederick, out of Piercy, was third.

CHOLERA IN POLAND.

St. Petersburg, July 28.—Cholera has made its appearance in Poland and several cases are reported at Warsaw. It continues to rage with virulence in the southeast of Russia.

THE KAISER'S RETURN.

Potsdam, July 28.—The Kaiser William arrived at Potsdam last evening on his return from his whaling trip. The empress was waiting for him at the landing stage and the imperial couple embraced each other in full view of the attendants.

SUMMER POLITICS.

People's Party in Session a Chicago.

To Make a Fight on Congressman.

Minnesota Republicans Meet in Convention in the City of St. Paul.

Chicago, July 28.—The county congressional and legislative convention of the people's party was called to order at noon to-day. Chairman Hess, of the state central committee, reported that arrangements had been completed for circulating the nominating petitions, and that as soon as the candidates were named the petitions would be scattered throughout the state.

Some of he enemies of the third party movement have claimed that they would find it impossible to secure the thousand signatures to their petitions, and that failing in this the names of their candidates would not be printed on the official ballot.

Mr. Hess says, however, that they will not only procure the thousand signatures required by law, but will procure twenty times that number in order to show the doubtful ones that a vote cast for the third party candidates will not be thrown away.

In fact, Daniel Gleason, who is likely to be nominated for congress in the second district, could undoubtedly poll a heavy vote, as he has already demonstrated his popularity by the strong canvass he made against Frank Lawler in the same district two years ago.

Upon that occasion Lawler went to Washington with a majority of only 16 votes behind him, and it is claimed that Gleason can make a stronger campaign this time than he did before.

Besides standing an excellent show for sending their man to congress from the second district, there is a possibility that the democrats and third party men may join their forces in the fourth and support Jonathan B. Taylor, in which case they would be almost sure of electing their man.

This, of course, is the way the people's party men themselves are talking. Outsiders are not betting on them very heavily, but whether they land their men in Springfield and Washington or not, the campaign is likely to demonstrate that the new movement is flourishing in the urban districts as well as among the farmers, and for this reason the campaign will be pushed actively for the sake of making a formal record of the party's strength.

A full list of speakers has been selected, and funds are not lacking to stump the state thoroughly, and if talk can win the game the people's party intends to be in it with its older brethren.

Minnesota Repubs.

St. Paul, Minn., July 28.—The republican state convention was called to order shortly after noon to-day by Chairman J. P. Heathole of the state central committee. The gubernatorial nomination is, of course, attracting most attention. The supporters of Knute Nelson, the Norwegian lawyer who represented the Fifth district in congress for several terms, claims that he has 400, and possibly 420 of the 712 delegates who constitute the convention. The committee on resolutions will report a platform containing a county option plank, and it is just this that has aroused the indignation of the Scandinavian prohibitionists. A joint committee representing the Scandinavian temperance societies in Minneapolis at a meeting over a month ago, called for the purpose of arranging a Fourth of July demonstration, passed a resolution to the effect that in view of the fact that a number of republican politicians, mostly Scandinavians, have taken steps toward securing the incorporation of a county option plank in the platform to be adopted by the republican state convention, for the express purpose of preventing thousands of Scandinavian voters from voting the prohibition ticket, and in view of the fact that the republican party, least of all parties, deserves the support of the "plain people" of America, we hereby resolve to make our Fourth of July celebration a straight third party prohibition demonstration.

The republicans, however, do not seem dismayed by this defection on the part of their Scandinavian allies, and say that with Knute Nelson at the head of their ticket they can reclaim the larger part of the disaffected element.

Golden State Republicans.

Sacramento, Cal., July 28.—The republican state convention adjourned after nominating presidential electors and confirming the nominations of various district conventions.

The platform which was adopted indorsed the national platform and the nominees of the Minneapolis convention and gives approval to the organization of the national republican league and republican college leagues; it demands the early completion, under government control, of the Nicaragua canal, a liberal expenditure of money for the improvement of harbors and internal waterways, and it invites capital to build into this state competing transcontinental lines of railways.

A complete list of the congressional nominations with the exception of the Sixth district, delegates from which will hold a convention Friday, is as follows: First district, E. W. Davis; Second, John T. Davis; Third, (renomination); Seventh, W. W. Bowers (renomination). S. G. Hillsborn also was nominated for the unexpired term of McKenna, resigned.

Van Voorhis Nominated.

Zanesville, O., July 28.—After a stubbron two days' and two nights' contest, Hon. H. C. Van Voorhis, of Muskingum county, was nominated for congress at midnight last night by the Fifteenth district republican convention. The nomination was made on the five hundred and fiftieth ballot, Mr. Van Voorhis receiving the votes of Muskingum, Morgan and Washington counties. Mr. Van Voorhis is 40 years of age, and president of the Citizens' National bank of this city.

Wisconsin Democrats.

Madison, Wis., July 28.—Fire yesterday cratic state central committee met last evening and decided on August 31 as the date of the convention and Milwaukee as the place. Several other cities presented claims, but Milwaukee was so clearly the most convenient to 80 per cent of the people of the state that it was selected by an almost unanimous vote.

M'CORKLE FOR GOVERNOR.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 28.—The democratic state convention met here yesterday and at midnight last nominated Col. W. A. McCorkle, of Charleston, for governor.

THE TEMPERATURE.

Bulletins from the People Who Are Sweltering.

Rochester, N. Y., July 28.—The heat here shows no signs of abating. At 8 o'clock this morning the temperature was 81, the highest of the week for that hour. The humidity was also higher. A fair breeze, however, makes the heat bearable.

Albany, N. Y., July 28.—There is no abatement of the heat here. This morning at 10:40 o'clock the thermometer registered 87 in the shade.

FREIGHT WRECK.

Holly, Mich., July 28.—A collision between two freight trains occurred at an early hour this morning on the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee road, two miles from here.

Both engines and 30 cars were completely wrecked, and five carloads of cattle, sheep and hogs were killed.

Brakeman Lachlan, of Holly, was severely injured by jumping. The rest of the crews jumped safely.

AN UNHAPPY HOME

Caused a Murder in the City of Chicago.

Chicago, July 28.—John Briske was shot and instantly killed by Frank Stenson at 4717 Paulina street, at 12:30 o'clock this morning. Both are laborers.

The quarrel was over Briske's wife, who some weeks ago left him and went to live with Stenson. The men had known each other for years and had been fast friends. Recently Mrs. Briske exhibited a decided preference for Stenson and this caused an open rupture. The recreant wife and murderer were arrested and locked up at the police station.

FROM PULPIT TO TRACK.

Fort Dodge, Ia., July 28.—Rev. Mr. Tyrell, the Methodist preacher who offered to whip a man for doubting the accuracy of his timing on a horse race, has handed in his resignation to the presiding elder. It was promptly accepted. Mr. Tyrell announces his intention of going into the business of horse racing.

SWEDES FOR HOMESTEAD.

Youngstown, O., July 28.—A party of 50 Swedes from Buffalo, N. Y., passed through here last night for Homestead to work in the Carnegie plant. Union men attempted to dissuade them from going, but they refused to listen, saying they had been offered good wages and would board and lodge in the mill.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Important Decision Rendered in Lansing.

The Democratic Reapportionment of State Districts Will Have to be Done Over Again.

Lansing, Mich., July 28.—The supreme court has handed down opinions declaring unconstitutional the two legislative bills re-apportioning the representatives and senators in the state legislature.

The case involving the senatorial gerrymander was called "Gidding vs. Secretary of State" and that involving the representative redistricting "Supervisors of Houghton County vs. Secretary of State."

The mandamus asked for is granted in each case and the secretary is ordered to issue notices of election in accordance with the acts of 1881, the acts of 1885 being held to be equally defective with that of 1891. The opinion follows the lines of the celebrated decision in the Wisconsin gerrymander. The court is unanimous in its opinion.

The Effect.

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—The effect of the decision will in any event be to make it practically certain that the republicans will elect the next United States senator. Although the governor may call an extra session of the legislature and a new reapportionment bill be passed the democrats have lost enough members of the senate by death and resignation to throw that body into the hands of the republicans, and, as any bill unfavorable to the latter would not pass, it is probable the democrats will take their medicine and go into the election under the law of 1881.

Removed from its covering of verbiage the decision is really based upon only one point—that of an unfair apportionment.

GUY MARVIN IN JAIL

For Shooting Firman Decker, a Farmer.

The Trouble Has Been of Long Standing, and Several Previous Fights Have Occurred.

Findlay, O., July 28.—Guy Marvin, a prosperous young farmer living four miles east of here, shot and dangerously wounded Firmin Decker, a young farm hand who was formerly in his employ, in the public road two miles east of this city. The trouble is of an old standing. Decker worked for Marvin last year, and last April Marvin's sister Bessie, who lived with him, was discovered to be in a delicate condition. Decker was accused of the paternity and confessed it. The girl was sent to a home in Toledo, and Marvin attempted to shoot Decker on sight. They have had several fights since.

Decker was standing in the road near where he was at work on the Jacob Tussing farm when Marvin drove up. Decker reached for a stone and called to him to stop, whereupon Marvin pulled his revolver and fired. The first shot missed Decker, who stooped for a stone, and threw it, striking the seat of the wagon. Marvin fired a second time, and, seeing Decker fall, drove home.

The wounded man lay in the road for a half hour, when he was picked up by a passer-by and brought to town. Marvin came in and gave himself up, and is now in jail.

CITY SOLICITOR READ

Has a Crow to Pluck with Some Toledoans

Who Were Anxious to Have Impeachment Proceedings Commenced—The Law Will Take Its Course.

In all probability impeachment proceedings against the indicted councilmen will not be instituted. The law requires that an affidavit setting forth the offense, signed by five citizens, must be filed in probate court, and notice of the same be served upon the city solicitor.

Solicitor Read announced that if the common pleas court refused to hear the cases at once, he would endeavor to impeach the councilmen in probate court.

The court did refuse to hear the cases until the September term of court, and Mr. Read promptly went to work and drew up the affidavits which, up to noon to-day, had not been signed.

"You may state in the Bee that I wash my hands of this impeachment business from this on unless five citizens have moral courage to voluntarily sign these affidavits. I will not ask another man, personally. When the matter first came up, one or two councilmen insisted that I leave the council room and draw up an affidavit that they might be signed that night. Five men came to me an volunteered to sign the affidavits, if I would go ahead and push impeachment proceedings. There were others urging me to go ahead. Some would pat me on the shoulder and say, 'That's right, Read, go ahead; I like your courage,' and all that rot, but when it came to signing the affidavit they haven't got the nerve of a canary bird. The pressure brought to bear upon me from both ends in this matter has been something astounding. In the beginning there were dozens of men red hot for me to begin, and couldn't wait until I could draw up the affidavits. It was not a great while until it became apparent that some influence was being brought to bear upon these parties so as to change their views in the matter.

"I know this to be a fact, for the reason that two or three of my most intimate friends came to me and said, "Read, you don't want to be so anxious to push this thing. You are young, and can't afford to take the chance. Its not your business to take up some other man's quarrel. Keep your hands off and let somebody else do the pushing if they will, but you keep out."

"Well, what does that look like? It means that every power on earth is being brought by parties interested to prevent the institution of these proceedings, and I know it.

"I have applied to every one of the men who were so terrible anxious in the beginning to have these men impeached, and there is not one who has not made some trifling excuse to get out of it. It is a standing disgrace, the whole business."

She Will Try and Settle the Homestead Trouble.

Latest News Concerning the Condition of Mr. Frick—All the Current Gossip.

Pittsburg, July 28.—Rev. Mrs. Amanda Deyo, a Universalist minister, of Scranton, Pa., is in Pittsburg as the accredited representative of the Universal Peace union, to attempt the settlement of the Homestead strike. She is 40 years of age and is a pleasant faced woman.

Her work here is jointly with Rev. J. L. Andrews, a Universalist minister of Allegheny. Yesterday the two called on Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie company, explained their mission and gave him a list of rules employed in the settlement of the difficulty between the Reading railroad and its employes, saying they would pertinently fit the trouble. The rules are called the "Bill of Rights." Mr. Lovejoy told Rev. Mrs. Deyo his company had nothing to arbitrate. Afterward the lady went to Homestead and was courteously received by Hugh O'Donnell, who told her he wanted the fight ended and was in favor of a conference. Mrs. Deyo will call on chairman Frick this afternoon. She will ask the aid of Bishop Phelan and the Protestant clergy in her work. A public meeting will probably be called in this city.

Pittsburg, July 28.—The bulletin issued by the surgeon in attendance upon Mr. H. C. Frick reports the patient as having passed a very comfortable night, his sleep unbroken and apparently in an improved condition this morning; pulse and respiration normal.

To Condemn the Slaughter.

London, July 28.—A circular couched in extreme language has been issued announcing that a meeting will be held in the East End on Saturday next to denounce, the circular says, the brutal murder of American workingmen of Carnegie, the millionaire who is now enjoying himself on an estate in Scotland, from which the tenants have been evicted, and to call attention to the cruel torture of an American soldier for expressing himself in favor of the strikers engaged in resisting a reduction of wages and the destruction of their union.

Depew's Mission.

New York, July 28.—It is stated that Chauncey M. Depew, who sailed yesterday for England, took with him a proposition from the locked-out Homestead men to Carnegie. The proposition for a cessation of the troubles is said to provide that the workmen will give up everything for which they have contended; will sign the reduced scale proposed by the Carnegie works and will permit the scale agreement to expire in December instead of June, provided the Amalgamated association of Iron and Steel Workers is recognized as an association.

More Men Engaged.

St. Louis, July 28.—An agent of the Carnegie company is actively at work in this city engaging workmen for the mills at Homestead. Many employes of the Vulcan and Jupiter iron and steel works which have been idle for some time have been engaged for the Carnegie works. It is stated that 115 men have been sent to Pittsburg on free transportation during the past week.

Close Released.

Pittsburg, July 28.—Close was released on $10,000 bail.

FOUGHT TO A FINISH.

Terrible Encounter Between Two Blooded Horses.

Dayton, O., July 28.—A fight to a finish in which time breathing spells, referees, and all rules applicable to pugilistic encounters were ignored, occurred on the stock farm of Col. W. M. Gamble, Miamasburg, between two blooded stallions, Rogers and Valley Boy.

In the temporary absence of their keepers the animals kicked down the doors to their stalls, and, breaking from their fastenings, turned and faced each other, when the battle began.

The low ceiling prevented the animals from getting on their hind feet and striking at each other. They gouged and bit until they got into the barnyard, when they again faced each other, and standing on their hind feet they dealt each other fierce body blows, with right and left.

Their horrifying shrieks and cries of pain started the remainder of the quadrupeds in the barnyard to places of safety. The combatants faced and fought each other fully one-half hour. In the meantime the keepers and farmers were attracted to the scene. At that moment Valley Boy got in a blow on Rogers' ribs that temporarily put the latter to sleep.

The use of clubs and buckets of water enabled the keepers to separate and subdue the fighters. Valley Boy had eleven frightful bite wounds, in some instances great shreds of flesh being stripped off. Up to the time of the knock-out blow Rogers had the best of the fight. Both horses will probably succumb to their injuries.

SOLVING A MYSTERY.

Shamokin, Pa., Has a Sensation on Hand.

John Weidenson's Death Will be Investigated by Police Officers.

New York, July 28.—A special to the World from Shamokin, Pa., says the police are trying to get at the truth regarding the death of John Weidensane, a wealthy liveryman of Lewisburg.

He was taken from a burning building on Saturday morning and on investigation it was found that he was shot in the head. The coroner's jury found that he had committed suicide.

The tragedy occurred in the house of his sweetheart, Miss Kate Neyhart. Monday it was ascertained that his skull had been crushed by means of a blunt instrument. This was the first intimation of foul play although Miss Neyhart strenuously adhered to the original story of suicide.

The physicians found that the bullet that penetrated the brain did not fit the chamber of the revolver found by the dead man's side. This adds mystery to the case and the authorities now believe that the man was murdered.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DISASTER.

Lima, O., July 28.—Northbound passenger train No. 16 of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road, had a narrow escape from a serious accident while running at the rate of 40 miles an hour between Deshler and Custer. The side rods of each side of the engine broke and went through the cab. Fireman Frank Moore was knocked back into the tender and struck on his head, but not fatally injured.

BATTLE FOR LIFE

Terrible Experience of the Crew of the Alva.

Capsized by the Heavy Storm of Sunday Night.

August Shade Swims Through the Breakers

And Sends Relief to His Half-Drowned Shipmates.

An Awful Night Among the Waves of Turbulent Lake Erie—The Story of the Rescue.

Cleveland, July 28.—A fight for life which lasted four and a half hours, and which resulted in one of a party of five young men being vanquished by death, took place on Lake Erie during the storm of Sunday night.

On Saturday evening a jolly party of young men left Cleveland on the yacht Alva, a stanch cutter-rigged craft, 21 feet over all, and considered one of the safest yachts on the lake.

They were August and Harry Schade, aged respecively 20 and 18 years; Oliver De Marsh, 20 years old; George Ryder, 22; and Wm. Ryder, 27. All but the last named intended to pass the succeeding two weeks at the Islands, but Will Ryder proposed to return home by way of Sandusky on Monday.

The yacht arrived at Lorain at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning, and left there at 11:30 o'clock for Sandusky. When about two miles west of Oak Point, the young men saw the storm coming up and made preparations to meet it by double reefing the mainsail and jib. They hove the yacht to and remained in that position for half an hour, hoping that the storm would pass over. At 6 o'clock, however, the wind struck them. The yacht rode in safety through the first and second squalls, but the mainsail was torn to shreds, the jib being saved because it was lashed. The third squall jibbed the boom and forced the boat's bow to the east. She turned on her beam ends, righted again, and then as the fury of the gale increased, turned completely over. This was exactly at 7:01 o'clock, an hour after the storm burst. When the boat upset, all hands jumped overboard. Wm. Ryder and Harry Schade clung to the bow, and August Schade, George Ryder and De Marsh hung to the spar, bearing it and the stern of the boat under water. The crew could not get at any ropes with which to lash themselves to the boat.

For two long hours the wrecked voyagers clung to their overturned craft. Then George Ryder made two attempts to reach shore. Each time he was obliged to return after he had gone a distance of perhaps a hundred feet from the boat. William Ryder had been gradually losing his presence of mind, and finally about 8:30 o'clock, as near as could be determined, a big wave dashed over him, and he was forced to let go of the bow. He sank immediately and did not rise again.

By a determined effort and the assistance of his brother Harry, August Shade managed to divest himself of all his clothes and struck out for shore, promising his surviving companions that he would reach land and obtain aid for the others or perish in the attempt.

It was a perilous swim, a mile and a half in length, and the brave swimmer very nearly lost his life. He was seized with cramps four times and only by a great exertion of strength and will power kept himself afloat.

He was at last thrown on a big rock at the edge of the shore in almost an unconscious condition. It was at least an hour before he recovered sufficient strength to proceed, and he then started naked across the fields toward a light which twinkled in the distance. The light came from the window of a fisherman's hut. The fisherman's name was William Kolb.

"I have left three men hanging to a yacht a mile and a half out in the lake," gasped Shade, as he staggered to the door. He was kindly received by Kolb and his wife. The latter wrapped Shade in a blanket and put him to bed, while her husband went to the nearest house for assistance.

Then Kolbe and two other fishermen, one of whom was Charles Forber, took a small skiff and started out into the darkness. The young men on the overturned yacht did not hear the fast approaching help coming until the skiff was about fifty feet away. They had given up all hope of rescue and supposed that August had been drowned on the way to shore.

They had said their prayers, bade each other an affectionate good-bye, and prepared for death like brave men.

When the skiff drew near enough to be seen, Harry Schade let go his hold on the spar and tried to reach the rescuers, but nearly sank from exhaustion and was pulled into the fishermen's boat by his collar. The other three were then taken off the wreck, after having been in the water, up to their necks most of the time, for four hours and a half.

Harry Schade had lost all control of his legs, having cramps from his hips down. They were taken ashore and put to bed, two in one house and two in another.

At Vermillion it was reported that seven persons had been drowned and a message was sent to Cleveland to that effect. On Monday evening Mr. A. E. Schade and Mr. George Ryder, the parents of the boys, arrived and took them home. During the afternoon the boys, with the assistance of the fishermen, got a line around the anchor chain of the yacht, which was fast over her timberhead, and towed her to the beach. A search was begun for the body of Will Ryder, but it has not yet been recovered. He was married about a year ago and lived on Brenton street. His wife and a baby of nine weeks old are left to face the world.

NATURE'S MARK

West Union, O., July 28.—Mineral Springs, this county, again comes to the front with a monstrosity. The head of the child, if it could be so called, resembles a rhinoceros. The body is about the size of a 3-months old child, while the head is three times the size of its body.

Its head is of soft cartilage and almost transparent. By close observation the blood can be readily traced. The eyes are entirely white. The least touch will cause the child to open its mouth and make a noise like an enraged animal. A triangular mark of blue color extends entirely across its forehead. The Post representative visited the place yesterday and found the child exactly as reported.

The case is further vouched for by Dr. O'Connor, N. W. Cross and E. W. Johnson, of Mineral Springs. The freak consumes about three quarts of milk daily. The child belongs to a family named Die, residing near Blue Creek, this county. It is a plain case of half man and half gorilla. It is full grown, and as savage a monster as one would wish to see.

The left side of its body is entirely covered with coarse black hair. Its left eye is black while its right eye is a deep blue. Its hair from its nose back on the right side is light and fine, while the opposite is coarse and black. The left hand and foot resemble the claws of an animal. It makes short barks like a dog.

WIND, RAIN AND HAIL.

A Terrible Storm Swept Over Ohio.

Toledo Only Received Part of the Heavy Deluge That Fell on Wednesday.

Massillon, O., July 28.—A wind, rain, and electrical storm, accompanied by hail, and unprecedented in violence and destructibility, passed over this section yesterday afternoon.

The passenger station of the Ft. Wayne road was struck by lightning and set on fire, but the damage was slight. Telegraph Operator McEwen, who was standing in front of the switchboard, was rendered unconscious for several minutes. The gas works were also struck, as was the residence of Joseph Houk.

A tree on the river bank, under which Adam Manger's son was killed two years ago and which was twice struck prior to that time, was hit again, uprooted, and thrown into the river.

The wind moved a double frame dwelling house eight feet from its stone foundation, wrecked it completely, making a thorough mass of rubbish out of the plaster from the walls, dishes, furniture, etc. Eight people were in the house at the time, but only two women were slightly injured.

On Warwick street Mrs. Shertzer was ironing in her summer kitchen and had barely deserted it when the wind turned it over three times, ruining the contents. At least fifty trees are blown down or wrecked in the city, and a similar visitation of disaster was the rule in the vicinty.

Much Damage at Wooster.

Wooster, O., July 28.—A tremendously heavy wind, rain and electrical storm passed over this city yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Hundreds of shade and fruit trees were broken down or blown out by the roots. A portion of the tower on Wooster university was wrecked. Henry Myers' bank barn was almost completely demolished. The roofs on the Snowflake mills and John Bricker's barn were blown off. Half a dozen residences were struck by lightning. The fall of rain was very heavy.

Severe at Akron.

Akron, O., July 28.—Akron was visited by another severe storm yesterday. The downpour of rain was very like that of a cloudburst. Several bad washouts are reported. During the rain the lightning was very sharp. The barn of Nathan Hardy, of Bowery street, was struck by lightning and damaged by fire to the extent of about $500. The upper story will have to be entirely rebuilt. Mr. Hardy was in the barn at the time, but escaped serious injury.

Fatality at Sandusky.

Sandusky, O., July 28.—Willie Mullen, a 10-year-old son of Jefferson Mulen, of this city, was killed during the storm here yesterday by a tree falling upon him. Ira Correll and James Paine, of this city, while in the woods during the storm, were struck by lightning. Correll was paralyzed and Paine so badly injured that he may die.

Lightning's Work.

Shelby, O., July 28.—The lightning struck a large barn belonging to John Spayde, north of Belleville, this county. Barn and contents were totally destroyed. Loss about $1,500.

Barn Burned.

Carlington, O., July 28.—A barn belonging to William H. Poorman, three miles west of here, was struck by lightning at noon, yesterday, and was entirely consumed by fire together with its contents.

Barn Burned.

Norwalk, O., July 28.—(Special)—T. M. Reynolds' barn, in Hartland township, south of this city, was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon. The barn with entire contents, consisting of hay, grain, farming implements, wagons and fine horses, was entirely consumed.

Orrin Reynolds, his son, attempted to rescue the horses and was nearly suffocated with smoke. He was rescued in time to save his life. Loss $1,500; only $200 insurance.

STABBED TO DEATH.

Most Brutal Murder in Evansville, Ind.

William Kurtz Plunges a Knife Into the Breast and Back of John Robinson.

Evansville, Ind., July 28.—John Robinson, aged 32 years, was brutally killed last night by William Kurtz on account of ill feeling growing out of reports in which the names of Mrs. Ella Mayer and Kurtz's wife, from whom he has been separated for some months, were connected.

The two men lived together and Kurtz was under the impression that Robinson was the cause of the separation from his wife.

Last night while Robinson was talking to a friend Kurtz slipped up behind him, grabbed him by the shoulder, pulled him back and drove a knife into his breast.

Robinson broke loose and ran across the street, followed by Kurtz, who again drove the knife into his victim's back, causing his death in 15 minutes. Kurtz was arrested sometime later, but would make no statement.

DROPPED CRUTCHES

And Walked Away From the Shrine Cured.

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—Ten-year-old Jimmy Sweeney, son of Patrick Sweeney, 402 High street, has been a cripple for the past seven years, suffering with hip joint disease caused by a fall. He was unable to walk without the aid of a crutch.

Last Thursday Dr. Mulhaon proposed to lance his leg for the relief of an abscess. The boy's mother refused to permit this.

Last Saturday he was taken with a large party of pilgrims to the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, in Quebec. There he was blessed with the relics of St. Anne. Relief came immediately, and he left the church without his crutch. His mother and sister, who accompanied him, vouch for the completeness of the cure.

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Small price. Small dose. Small pill.

THE RACES AT SARATOGA

Splendid Contests in the Boiling Sun.

Games of Ball Played in the Big League.

All the Gossip of Interest to People Who Have Pride in Out-Door Sports of All Kinds.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 28.—Wednesday was oppressively hot here, but many spectators witnessed the final heats in the national regatta on the lakes. More, in fact, than saw the preliminary races yesterday.

At 2 o'clock a wind sprang up from the south and made a choppy sea. Referee Stimson, however, was satisfied that the water was sufficiently smooth for racing and called out the senior single scullers who were as follows:

Edwin Hedley, of Philadelphia; John J. Ryan, of Toronto; John J. Bergen, of Cambridge; E. H. Thompson, of Toronto; Wm. Caffrey, of Boston; Fred. Hawkins, of New York, and C. E. Bulger, of Albany.

Ryan, who last week won the championship of Canada, crossed the line first in 10:24, followed by Hedley, 10:35; then Caffrey, Hawkins, Bergen, Bulger and Thompson.

In the junior singles were James Coughlin, of Brooklyn; H. W. F. Cady, of New York; H. T. Seaton, of Newark; H. C. Blackinton, of Providence; James Hurley, of Toronto; Peter Lehany, of Albany, and A. W. Beusley, of Pawtucket.

Lehany won in 11:25; Cady second in 11:40. The others finished: Seaton, Backinton, Beusley and Coughlin.

Huneker and Hecht, of the Ioans, Philadelphia; Cady and Delany, of the Nonpariels, New York; the Lau Bros., of the Atlantics, New York, and Standish and Lyon, of Detroit, contested in the pair oared race.

The crews were generally steered badly in the rough water. The Detroits collided with the Nonpariels, knocking a hole in their boat and compelling Cady and Delany to take refuge in the judge's craft. Standish and Lyon won in 10:43; Iona second in 10:55, and Atlantics about a length behind.

The double scull race brought out Park and Hedley, of Philadelphia; Quinn and Freeth, of Brooklyn; Henderson and Case, of Chicago, and the O'Donoghues, of Newburg. The finish line was crossed thus: Park and Hedley, 9:53; Quinn and Freeth, 9:54.

Everybody looked for wretched steering by the union fours, and there was no disappointment. Crews were entered by the following clubs: Institute, Newark; Ariel, Baltimore; Astoria, New York and Atalanta, New York. The Ariels won easily in 9:40.

The Astoria shell sank within a short distance of the finish from injuries received in a collision.

Much interest was centered in the senior four-oared race in which were entered the Fairmounts, of Philadelphia; the Wyandottes, of Michigan; the Argonauts, of Toronto; the Atalantas, of New York; the Modocs, of St. Louis, and the Wolverines, of Detroit. The Modocs and the Wyandottes made a dead heat of it in 4:03. The Argonauts and Atlantas crews fouled close to the finish; Fairmount fifth and Wolverines last.

It was growing late in the afternoon, but the referee decided to send off the junior and senior eights. In the former the Everetts, of Boston, and the Dauntless, of New York, were entered. The crews were inferior. The Massachusetts men, however, outrowed their opponents. Time, Everetts, 9:12; Dauntless, 9:40.

The most exciting event of the day was reserved for the last, the eight-oared race. The Athletics of New York (known as the "Chippies"), the Manhattans, of New York, and the Maltas, of Boston, rowed. The Chippies were too fast for their opponents, and amid the cheers of spectators and the whistles of the steam craft, they crossed the line victors in 7:55, with a lead of not over 50 feet.

New York, July 28.—A dispatch received in this city yesterday from London stated that Pritchard's backer refused to allow him to fight Hall in America. The Coney Island Athletic club had made an offer of a $10,000 purse for the men to fight at their rooms, but the above dispatch seems to settle the matter and the battle will occur in England as originally intended.

—::—::—

Chicago, July 28.—Parson Davies writes from Berlin under date of July 11, that Jackson is slowly improving, but will not be fit to fight again for some time. He says that Hall and Pritchard are both getting ready for their match. It will take place August 22. No club has yet offered a purse, but the match will take place on that date. Pritchard will be a favorite at ten to seven.

It is said that Davies and Jackson will be at the ring-side at New Orleans and challenge the winner of the Sullivan-Corbett mill.

New Orleans, July 28.—The Olympic club management have commenced to enlarge and refit their mammoth arena for the coming championship fights. Two championship battles will be fought in the club on two successive nights. President Noel proposes to drape the entire club house in the club colors, and the grounds of the organization will be beautifully decorated with lanterns and flags of all nations. A handsome electric gong will be put in and several rows of new boxes will be added, and the seating capacity generally enlarged with the view of meeting the demand on the occasion of the great contests. The enlargement was made necessary by reason of the fact that almost the entire seating capacity of the amphitheater had already been engaged for the Sullivan-Corbett contest.

BOLD BANK ROBBERY.

Another Crime Charged to the Dalton Gang.

A Woman Made to Give Out All the Money the Bank Had on Hand.

El Reno, I. T., July 28.—Shortly after the bank of El Reno opened for business this morning a stranger entered and engaged in conversation with the cashier's wife, who was in charge of the bank during the temporary absence of her husband.

After making some inquiries in regard to real estate, the stranger walked to an adjacent desk and began writing.

Just then another stranger entered the bank and with drawn revolver called out: "Hands up." He then compelled the frightened woman to hand out all the money in the safe.

After securing the money, which amounted to $10,500, the men left the bank and mounting their horses, quickly rode away.

It was some minutes before the cashier's wife regained her presence of mind sufficiently to give the alarm and by the time the news of the robbery was made public the robbers had a good start. It is believed the robbery was committed by the Dalton brothers.

THE LIGHTNING

Shocks a Railroad Conductor While on His Train.

Conductor Wimple, while on his train at Wauseon during the thunder storm yesterday, was shocked by the lightning. The bolt shattered a large tree in the field and stunned Mr. Wimple and Brakeman Luce. They were insensible for nearly an hour, and are of the opinion that distance lends enchantment to the view.

A CANINE VISITOR

Who Attracts General Attention when He Comes to Town.

Every so often an unusually large and handsome Newfoundland dog is seen in the office of the Burnett house. He is such a fine looking fellow that he attracts general attention. He wears a massive collar inscribed as follows:

My name is Bruno,
I belong to R. J. Johnston.
Whose dog are you?

His owner, Mr. Johnston, is a Cincinnati man, and is making a short stay in Toledo.

THE COMING CIRCUS.

The Sells & Rentfrow's Show Well Spoken of.

The Sells & Rentfrow's circus will show in Toledo at the corner of Monroe and Fourteenth streets Wednesday, August 3. Of the show the Louisville Courier-Journal says: "This excellent circus and menagerie was well patronized yesterday afternoon and evening, and it well deserve dthe enormous crowd which flocked to the capacious tents. The menagerie shows up all that has been advertised, and the ring performances were excellent, comprising many very difficult, attractive acts never before presented here. The riding was good."

TWO DEATHS ONLY

As the Result of the Terribly Hot Wave in Toledo.

The unusual hot weather that has visited the city for the past few days has fortunately not been disastrous. Only one case of death by sunstroke, Hugh Herr, has been reported to the health department, and the only other death that could be attributed to the heat was a case of cholera infantum.

MASS MEETING

Of the C. E.'s of the City at East Toledo.

There were about 200 members of Christian Endeavor societies in the city in attendance at the mass meeting held in the Second Congregational church, East Toledo, last evening. The meeting was one of great interest, as reports were received from the New York delegates, and the entire program showed careful preparation and earnest purpose. Mr. Nauts gave a general report of the work of the convention, and was followed by Mr. Adams. Miss Olive Brown spoke on Junior work. Miss Brown is a very entertaining speaker and her remarks were thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Miller talked on the work of the missionary committee and work of missions. The meeting closed with a consecration service which was conducted by calling the rolls of the societies, each one responding with a verse of scripture, a hymn, or a prayer.

GOT THE WAGON

Through an Order from Justice Seagrave.

The case of the Toledo Coal & Ice company against the Toledo Truck and Storage company was decided in Justice Seagrave's court yesterday afternoon.

It appears that the Toledo Coal & Ice company had an ice wagon at the barns of the Toledo Truck & Storage company, which the company held for storage, alleged to be due, and refused to give it up.

The Toledo Coal & Ice company instituted replevin proceedings to get possession of the wagon.

On hearing of the case the justice gave the wagon to the owner, holding that the storage company was not entitled to storage on the wagon.

THE UPDYKE MEETINGS

Well Attended—A Meeting for Ladies Only.

The tent meetings being conducted by Evangelist Updyke, are being well attended, and although there is not so much enthusiasm exhibited as could be wished for, still the terrible heat is probably the only cause. Last night the sermon was on the second coming of Christ, and was handled by Rev. Updyke in a style that could hardly fail of deeply impressing, if not absolutely convincing his audience.

This evening tickets will be given out for a sermon which Mr. Updyke will preach on Sunday to ladies only. A week from Friday evening he will deliver a lecture on "Blues, the Cause and Effect," to which an admission of 25 cents will be charged. The expense of holding the meetings has been great, and the receipts of this lecture will go towards defraying these expenditures. It is hoped that who are interested in the meetings will give practical evidence of the fact by patronizing the lecture.

THE NEW RITUAL

Exemplified at Lima's K. P. Lodge Rooms—All Highly Pleased.

For some days a committee composed of Messrs. D. F. Glidden, of Detroit; R. L. C. White, of Nashville, Tenn; W. A. Radcliffe, of St. Louis; Egbert E. French, of Omaha, and Walter B. Ritchie, of Lima, have been in session at Lima, working upon the revision of the Knights of Pythias ritual to be introduced in the supreme lodge at its next session.

The work of revising the ritual has been completed, and the committee accepted an invitation from Mr. Richie to put the work of the revision on the floor of Lima lodge to test its merits. They are highly pleased with it. Last evening the committee were joined by Supreme Representative A. P. Butterfield, of Cincinnati, and Hon. John C. Burns, of Mansfield; Gen. W. D. Kennedy, of Chicago, and Hon. George B. Shaw, supreme chancellor of the world, and to-day the party will leave for the lakes on a few days' outing as the guests of Mr. Richie.

WHERE THE RUB COMES IN.

Brother Squire Unbosoms Himself on the Congressional Nomination.

This morning's Columbus Journal contains the following interesting paragraph from President Squire's thought on the congressional scramble:

"W. I. Squire, in a review of the outlook in the Ninth district, says that to him it appears Candidate Lincoln, of Wood county, has the best of it. Lucas county, if the number of delegates is estimated on the vote of last year, will have one more vote in the congressional convention than the other counties combined. If they could agree upon a candidate he would be the nominee. There's where the rub comes in. Lucas county has three candidates and the vote will be divided between them, and a few will probably go to Lincoln. Fulton county has a candidate and will stick to him through thick and thin. The convention has not been called yet, but will probably be at Toledo the middle of August."

Now, what's the matter with Mr. Squire as a dark horse?

THE WHISTLING NUISANCE.

It Ought to Come to a Full Stop—The Law on the Subject.

While there has been much improvement in the cessation of the almost intolerable blowing of whistles on the river and in the railroad yards, as well as at the numerous factories, there is yet room for further stoppage. The state law governing this matter is as follows:

Sec. 1032a. That in all cities of the first class, such cities shall have the power to regulate and compel the consumption of the smoke emitted by the burning of coal, and to prevent injury and annoyance to the same; and shall also have he power to regulate or fully prohibit the use of steam whistles by bloking or sounding the same, or causing steam whistles to be blown or sounded

In accordance with this authority the council has passed an ordinance on the subject, the sections referring to the nuisance reading:

Section 215. No person or persons shall blow or cause to be blown a steam whistle of any locomotive within the limits of the city of Toledo for the purpose of signalling to make up trains or in any other cases, except when absolutely necessary as a signal of danger.

Section 617. No person shall blow or cause to be blown, within the limits of the city of Toledo, the steam whistle of any stationary or portable engine, as a signal for commencing or suspending work, or for any other purpose, except as specified in the preceding section.

Section 620. It shall be the duty of every officer and member of the police force to see that the provisions of this chapter are enforced.

The above are all plain provisions of law, and it is to be hoped the proper authorities will see that they are observed.

Healthy people you meet have healthy livers. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

A TOLEDO CHORUS GIRL

Commits Suicide in a Chicago Flat.

An Unhappy Marriage and Bad Luck the Cause—She Writes a Letter to Her Mother in Toledo.

Olive Smith, of Toledo, whose mother Mrs. Mary Cromwell, also resides here, committed suicide in Chicago Tuesday, by taking morphine.

She married at the age of 16, unhappily, and left her husband. For some time she has been striving to secure enough money to aid to obtain a divorce, supporting herself part of the time as a chorus girl in the grand opera company.

She had been living in a front flat at 312 Washington street, Chicago, and had an admirer by the name of Harold Darwin. He exclaimed as he stood by her bedside, "If I could find the man who sold her the poison I would kill him on sight." It is said that Darwin and Mrs. Smith had been living together.

Olive left a letter addressed to her mother in this city, dated July 25, 1892. In it the writer refers several times to her inability to send money and says that she had not been working for two weeks. "Everything seems to go wrong with me," Mrs. Smith said in the letter, "and I feel very blue, which has been my condition almost all the time lately."

The whereabouts of the husband is not known.

BATTERY D BOYS

Are Getting Things in Shape For Camp.

Orders Issued Telling When and How the Battery Will Leave—It Will be Camp Buckeye.

Capt. George Roulet, of Battery D, of Toledo, has issued orders to the battery regarding the coming encampment of the First Regiment Light Artillery, O. N. G.

The Battery D boys will go to camp at Newark 75 strong. They will assemble at the armory at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, August 11, in heavy marching order, and will proceed to the Wheeling & Lake Erie depot, where they will take the 7:45 train for Monroeville, and then the B. & O., and reach camp at 1:10 p. m.

The camp will be known as Camp Buckeye. This is the only regiment of artillery in the country outside of the regular army, and is composed of batteries from Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo, Zanesville, Springfield, Akron, Newark, Cincinnati and Marietta.

An advance squad of eight men, under Lieut. Squire, will go down from Battery D, Monday, August 8, with the camp equipment, etc.

The battery expects a requisition of supplies—leggins, wire cots and new sabers before they go to camp. Drills are being held every Monday and Thursday evenings, and the company is becoming quite proficient in the new tactics. They will try the new guard mount this evening.

Battery D will cut a dash at the world's fair next year.

We are receiving, nearly every day, new Laces, which in popular styles are very scarce. We are also showing new Embroideries and All Overs, choice styles for ladies' and children's wear.

ALONG THE GREAT LAKES

The Steamer City of Owen Sound Raised,

After Having Been Submerged for Four Years.

Vessel Passages Through the Lakes and Rivers—General Marine Intelligence.

Cleveland, July 28.—The contract for building the new freight carrier, which was to be ordered by Hawgood & Avery, was awarded by them yesterday to F. W. Wheeler & Co., at Bay City. The boat will be the largest on the lakes, being 377 1-2 feet in length over all, with 360 feet keel, 45 beam and 25 deep. She will be fitted with powerful triple expansion engines, and will be ready for business on April 1, 1893.

Four Years in Deep Water.

Detroit, July 28.—The Canadian steamer City of Owen Sound, which foundered in a heavy gale October 24, 1887, on Geogorian Bay, has at last been raised, and taken to Little Current, Ont. Her cargo of grain is reported in as good condition as if it had only recently been submerged. The steamer was raised by means of iron pontoons, and the Collins Bay Wrecking company will make a small fortune out of the venture. The steamer lay in deep water just inside the Cove island passage. She has long been given up as a total loss.

An Augur Hole.

Buffalo, July 28.—Davidson's new propeller, City of Venice, came in with her first load of wheat from Duluth. She will have to be docked to stop a leak from an augur hole in her bottom. Her pumps prevented damage to cargo on the way down.

Bay City, July 28.—The City of Genoa, second of three steamships built this year by James Davidson, was launched yesterday.

The Wreck of the Baldwin.

Cleveland, July 28.—L. P. Smith, one of the owners of the schooner Baldwin, denied the charges made in evidence before United States Court Commissioner at Marquette, that an attempt was made to lose the boat.

He states that the Booth Fishing company agreed to settle the salvage claim of $5,000 for $1,200, and if that amount had been paid nothing of the story about cut pipe and mysterious telegrams would have been heard of.

Echoes from the Scottish Elections.

The Scottish Leader, a staunch Liberal paper published in Edinburgh, is sending marked copies of its mid-July issue all over the English speaking world with significant political conclusions marked for attention. Of Mr. Gladstone's loss in Mid-Lothian, it says, in substance, the forcing of the Disestablishment issue into the canvass, instead of conducting it on the leading and all absorbing question of Home Rule, not only cut deep into Mr. Gladstone's majorities in Mid-Lothian, but demonstrated, to the sorrow of the unwise agitators, a majority of 690 against the church. The voters who thus made Disestablishment the issue, and who were at the same time good home rulers, may look upon the result with anything but satisfaction. Says the Leader:

The plain truth is that the doctrine of religious equality has come to be accepted as an essential part of a really Liberal faith. Thousands of Scotchmen, who have hitherto worshipped in the Established Church, have no scruple whatever in supporting Disestablishment, because theyfeel the existence of one State-supported Church to be an anomaly, while they entertain no sort of fear for the welfare of religion.

The power of a clergyman in a Scottish parish is next to omnipotent, his function investing him, if not with authority, at least with opportunity for influence that is unique. "It entered every cottage in Mid-Lothian and shook hands with the inmates." Now, says the Leader, when disestablishment becomes an issue, with this expression behind him, Mr. Gladstone will, "when the time comes, have his last word with the church."

Later returns have added to Liberal victories in other Scottish boroughs, and the Tories are not so rejoiceful as they were.

The Only Protection for Labor.

The laboring classes of this country are coming to understand that the protection vaunted of by republican doctrine and policy, doesn't protect anybody but the employer in his profits. Neither does the most perfect organization protect the laborer, for the reason that enacted laws are all made for his employer and for capital. Capital is bulwarked by the government even to the finest detail of profit and sacred rights. And organized labor simply runs plump up against this wall that has bayonets behind it. Neither does the laborer protect himself by rioting, shooting and killing, or trying to coerce other men to the extent of saying what shall or shall not be done.

Manifestly, then, the root of the trouble is in the legislation of the country that gives favors to classes for which the masses must bear the burden. And this legislation is greatly the result of the bliudness and ignorance of labor itself. We must go to the root of the difficulty and not be popping guns at inevitable results. If the wrongs of labor have not their redress in the ballot then our system of government is a failure and we are dispoiling the grand heritage for which our ancestors paid such priceless treasure. We need more patriots and fewer politicians, more school houses and fewer grog shops. A free people must be a sober, thoughtful, educated and self-reliant people, or their liberties will soon be cunningly perverted by the greed and selfishness of unscrupulous and designing men who thirst for unlimited power and great possessions. So long as human nature remains in its present unregenerate condition will eternal vigilance be the price of liberty.

Be Merciful Term.

From every direction come reports of unprecedented hot weather. The south has nothing like it in its book of remembrance. The west is panting, and Kansas and some other states are suffering from drouth as well. In Chicago, yesterday, there were seventy-nine cases of sunstroke. The Times prints the following formula for taking care of the victims:

We have ice caps of a double thickness of rubber at the patrol station. When we have a call we fill the caps with cracked ice, which we keep ready in the barn. Then we carry a little cracked ice along in a bucket. The best thing is to hurry a sunstroke patient to a hospital, but of course we must at once treat the sufferer. We apply the ice caps to the head and hold cracked ice around the wrists. The main object is to reduce the temperature, and the ice caps and the ice at the wrists are the best agency for the purpose. But every sunstroke patient is not affected the same way, and we have to use judgment in treating individual cases. Some persons when stricken with the heat become delirious, while others fall into a deep slumber. Then others are troubled with heart failure, and for that we always carry a bottle of heart tonic. The prompt application of the simple remedies by the men of the police patrol is frequently the means of saving the life of a patient. But we always get the patient to a hospital as soon as possible.

Who Is Responsible for Him?

The mill and mine owners of Pennsylvania are, in a great measure, responsible for the presence in this country of the ignorant and anarchistic foreigner. They have bargained for and welcomed him here, in defiance of law, because he will work for a pittance. Shortly he gets his eyes open to the fact that there is small difference between serfdom in this or the old country, and he revolts after the savage fashion of his kind. Then the people who have been paying tribute to the employer for the "protection of American labor," the state's portion of them, must bear still further tax burden to pay the soldiery to guard this deceitful and double-dealing employer from the savages of his own importation. The intelligent, skilled workers, with their desire for arbitration and honest, lawful methods, are embarrassed and handicapped by this foreign and unassimilated element. Verily it is expensive business for the people, this governmental boosting of a giant monopoly.

Republicans are quite welcome to all the enjoyment they can get out of the postponement of the meeting to be addressed by Hon. Frank Hurd. It is not at all singular that they rejoice; they would have reason to be glad if it could be finally postponed. They know Mr. Hurd pours killing shot into their ranks whenever he takes hold of the topic of the tariff, and that no man of their party in the state can attempt to answer his argument. They also know that there were as many persons in the audience when the adjournment was made Monday evening as listened to the harangues of Hamilton, Griffin and Ashley, fireworks, brass bands and all. The dreadful and dangerous heat is potent enough cause for adjournment. Mr. Hurd has something to say for the people to hear, and the auspicious hour will come.

To be sure "there's no politics in the Homestead affair." Last night's dispatches tell us that the republican national committee want to aid in a speedy settlement of the strike, and Senator Dalzell sounds the note of alarm for his party in the state, "owing to the Homestead troubles." Odd that anybody should insist upon dragging politics into this affair of cut wages and lock-out, when the issue of the campaign is the tariff tax as a protection to labor! and the iron and steel industry of Pennsylvania is the highest protected industry in the world!

There's a distinction and a difference between firmness and brutality in military discipline and indications are that Col. Streator and Gen. Snowden will be taught in what it consists.

The independents of Colorado unite with the silver men in state convention, and the silver men are both democrats and republicans, which complicates the Colorado situation.

Dana declares he is a democrat, but he gets quoted exasperatingly often in republican organs.

CANADA IS STILL ALARMED

Uncle Sam's Retaliation Bill Discussed in Canada.

The Coasting Laws of the Two Countries—Many Vessels Would Have to go Out of Commission

Toronto, Ont., July 28.—The retaliatory bill passed by the United States congress has aroused grave apprehension among Canadian vessel owners.

Until the toll has actually been announced and the regulations have been in operation it will be impossible to say definitely what the effect will be, but there is no doubt that in these days of close competition even a slight additional burden will handicap the Canadian vessel owner, and that anything like the full toll charged at Sault Ste. Marie would simply drive him out of the trade. The steamer Rosedale, owned by Haggarty & Co., and costing in the neighborhood of $100,000, is too long to be brought down through the St. Lawrence canal, and would have to tie up. The Algonquin, owned by Thomas Marin, of Port Huron, and costing about the same, would be in a similar predicament. The imposition of the toll would also probably lead to litigation, because most of the charters have already been made under the impression that the tolls would remain the same as before. These are only a few of the valuable vessels which would practically be compelled to tie up. The aggregate loss to Canadian vessel owners if the full toll be imposed would undoubtedly be up in the millions. It is understood that the contractors for the Canadian Soo canal have proposed to complete it for traffic within a year on the payment of $250,000 extra. If this could be accomplished Canadian vessel owners would not suffer more than a year of enforced idleness, but even at its best the retaliatory bill is a very serious matter for them.

W. W. Ogilvy, the big miner, being spoken to, said that the operation of the bill would not seriously affect the trade of Montreal or indeed that of the Dominion. American vessels can now go and discharge at Kingston and get their rebate the same as Canadian vessels, but if we are to allow them to go and discharge in Ogdensburg it would virtually hand over the St. Lawrence river carrying trade to the Americans, thus throwing out of employment the large number of Canadians who are engaged in this trade and who live on the banks of the St. Lawrence between Montreal and Kingston. The same people could not work on American barges without living in the United States and becoming American citizens, so rigidly does the American discriminate against Canadian labor. Although all our canals and rivers are open to Americans they still keep the Whitehall and Erie canals and the Hudson river closed against us. Our barges have to transfer at Whitehall, while theirs load anywhere in Canada and go through to New York. And still, they say that they do not discriminate against us.

Taken altogether, Mr. Ogilvy concluded, if the Canadians are wise they will pay no attention to the Americans. The trade of Montreal is constantly increasing and if we will only use the natural energy of the Canadians it will continue to increase.

John Torrance, of the Dominion Steamship line, said that ocean and inland carriers would have to bear the burden. Till the Sault canal was finished the weight, he said, would fall seriously on those named, and thence, of course, on Montreal and her forwarding interests. Still he was not for abating a jot of Canada's title in question. The conduct of the Americans in shutting us out of the Whitehall and Erie canals was of itself enough to point to without anything for the justification of what the Americans had pleased to term discrimination against them.

Hugh McLennan referred to the coasting laws which would not permit British vessels to tranship freight at Ogdensburg and also to the denial of our barges of the Erie and Whitehall canal routes, in themselves a grievance to Canadians.

Kingston, N. Y., July 28.—Sir John Thompson and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell were here yesterday hastening to Ottawa from their holiday sojourn and quite agitated over the retaliatory movement of the United States government. Neither would discuss the matter.

HAVING A TIME.

The Militia Boys Down at Camp Forsyth.

Weather Continues Pretty Hot, But Who Cares

When All Other Conditions Are So Favorable?

The Tiffin Rifles Arrive at the Camp

And Are Greeted With Cheers—Capt. Heistand and Other Big Officers Right in Line—Notes Gathered by the Bee.

Every day at Camp Forsyth is livelier than the preceeding one, and to-day is the best in camp yet. There are plenty of visitors, and the regiment is doing some good work under the eye of Lieutenant-Colonel Collins, Assistant Adjutant General Howe and Captain Heistand. Otherwise the day is much like others in camp, and the regular routine is being followed.

Capt. H. O. S. Heistand, of the Eleventh United States infantry, arrived in camp yesterday and was received by the officers.

Capt. Heistand is the regular army officer detailed to inspect and instruct the state national guard, and he is the right man in the right place. He went to work at once, and at the non-commissioned officers' school in the afternoon he gave the men a very instructive lecture, especially on their guns and the care of the same. The captain very properly attaches great importance to a clean gun.

An excellent battalion drill was held in the afternoon, and the regimental parade in the evening was the best of the week.

The boys are busy getting ready for inspection and muster, which may occur tomorrow, although it has not been officially announced. Adjutant General Pocock will be here, and when he comes he will be received with all the honors due his rank.

A very pleasant incident in the routine of the day was a visit to the camp of Forsyth Post, Woman's Relief Corps, Mrs. Forsyth, mother of Lieut. Forsyth, for whom the camp was named, was with them, and they were made heartily welcome by the officers and ladies of the regiment.

An important part of camp life and the prettiest ceremonies of the day are those which occur in the morning, and which are witnessed by very few visitors.

Early in the morning the cannon booms and the band plays the regulation revelle, while marching down headquarters street.

It is a delightful awakening after a good night's sleep under the canvas roof, and sends a thrill through the soldier that cannot be imagined until experienced.

Then after breakfast at 7 o'clock is guard mount, with plenty of music from the band and the guard for the day is on duty. This ceremony is both imposing and pretty, and the music from the band is inspiring, yet but very few people outside of the regiment ever see it.

Then there is a battalion drill before the sun is too high, and as the regiment marches over the big parade ground with graceful movements and perfect time, it gives an American added confidence in the splendid citizen soldiery that must be the bulwark of defense in case of war.

The officers' school that follows is also interesting.

That Company E, from Tiffin.

Company E, the Tiffin rifles, about which there has been some trouble, as mentioned in the Bee, , arrived in camp yesterday afternoon with about 35 men, under Capt. Carle and Lieut. Lysle, and another detail arrived this morning under Second Lieutenant Brown.

The manner in which the difficulty was settled is interesting. Assistant Adjutant General Howe could not account for the delay in assigning the company to the Second, and yesterday he detailed Capt. Bryant to get that company into camp as soon as possible. He gave the captain all authority necessary, and that officer at once came up to the city.

Capt. Bryant was formerly a telegraph operator and can handle a key as good as any one, so he received permission to use an instrument in the Western Union telegraph office and he had a long talk with Capt. Carle at Tiffin and the result was that the company arrived in the afternoon.

When the company arrived at the island they were received by the officers, and their splendid appearance and bearing caused much favorable comment.

They marched to headquarters and were there received by Col. Collins, who welcomed them in a few words, and afterwards they were addressed briefly by Col. Bonner and Hon. S. M. Taylor.

Col. Collins then said: "Capt. Carle, your supper is ready, and I expect your men are hungry. Our regimental parade is also forming, which would you prefer?"

The answer came promptly: "The parade, sir," and thereupon the company was marched out upon the field.

This answer went a long ways to establish the company in the good graces of their new regimental officers.

Notwithstanding their inexperience the company carried themselves almost like veterans in the parade, and as they passed in review their perfect line was heartily applauded by the on-lookers, and this was the first applause of the camp. It is the opinion of the officers that Company E will soon come to the front, as it has the right kind of stuff.

Sons of Veterans.

Mark F. Sibley Camp, No. 18, Sons of Veterans, will give a reception to-morrow evening at Presque Isle to all sons belonging to the Second regiment, O. N. G. All sons of veterans in the city have been invited to attend and an A1 time is anticipated. Refreshments and cigars will be on tap. Manager Quale has donated the use of the boat house to the boys.

Naval Reserve.

A discussion was held in camp last night that may bring forth fruit in the shape of a naval reserve on the lakes. Col. Bonner and several Toledo gentlemen talked the matter over with Gen. Howe and Col. Collins, and the plan to them appeared feasible. Steps will be taken to establish a naval reserve such as that on the coast, and the Ohio Yacht club have decided to take the matter in hand.

Notes.

City Auditor Pheatt was in camp last night.

Hon. C. A. Flickinger visited camp yesterday.

Forsyth post, G. A. R., will spend tomorrow at camp.

The Trinity cadets will be the guests of Co. H to-morrow.

The Pastime took down large crowds on all of her trips to-day.

Hon. M. E. McClure, of Kalida, visited Camp Forsyth yesterday.

There are a large number of new commissioned officers in this camp.

Col. Bonner, of the governor's staff, is spending the week with the boys.

Ex-Mayor Shanafelt, of Kenton, arrived in camp yesterday and will spend a few days.

Mart Witchner, of Tiffin, was the guest of Quartermaster Sergeant Fleck last night.

Hon. S. M. Taylor, republican candidate for secretary of state, is spending a few days in camp.

Miss May Deming, of Kenton, sister of Lieutenant Deming, Company G, arrived in camp last evening.

Mr. Frank Stevens, of the Lima Gazette, was in camp and will write the boys up for his paper.

Officer of the day, Captain Frank Tschanan; officers of the guard, Lieutenants Taylor and Miller.

Mrs. Captain Davis, of Findlay, and Mrs. Captain Johnson, of Bellefontaine, are late arrivals in camp.

Bugler O'Hara arrived in camp from Findlay last evening and sounded retreat for the first time in this camp.

Major Hopkins, of the artillery, Capt. Roulet and Lieut. Baker, of Battery D, took a look about camp yesterday.

There was an excursion from Tiffin yesterday and several hundred people from that city visited the camp during the day.

Two men were prostrated from heat during regimental parade as evening, and were taken care of by the efficient hospital corps.

Capt. Bell's tent did not shed water during the storm yesterday and Mrs. Bell, her guests and children were obliged to take refuge in the city last night.

Captain McMaken, Lieutenant Howells and about a dozen of the Cadets spent last evening in camp. There is a very warm friendship between the Cadets and the Second.

There have been some lively initiations of new members in Company G. The usual method is by ducking in the bay. A court martial is also on the tapis, and then there will be fun.

The leader of the splendid band belonging to the Second regiment is Anthony Zender, who deserves much praise for the music he gets from his men. Mr. Zender is an accomplished musician, and comes of a musical family.

Mrs. Col. Howe, Mrs. Dr. Paul, Mrs. Dr. Glenn and other ladies of the camp add much to the pleasure of visitors.

A sad event in camp yesterday was the calling home of Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Gooding, who were with Col. Collins. This was occasioned by the sudden death of Mrs. Moore's father, Mr. Scott Hoon, at Kenton. The ladies returned on the train last evening.

Mr. Harry Rollins, of Company S, of Ottawa, was overcome by heat yesterday. Surgeons Paul and Glenn were immediately summoned and he had the attention of the best medical skill. He is rapidly improving. Three others were more or less overcome by heat.

Col. Howe, Lieut.-Col. Collins and staff entertained some Toledo guests royally yesterday afternoon. After witnessing the dress parade they were shown around the camp. Camp life was explained in all its details. The company was then taken to the staff officers' dining hall, where an elegant supper was served. Among the guests were Major and Mrs. O. J. Hopkins, Col. Bonner, Capt. McMaken, Lieut. Howells, Mrs. J. R. Seney, Moulton Houk and Dr. McBain. The main topic of discussion was "Is marriage a failure," for the benefit of Capt. Kirk, who is the only single man on the staff.

AN EXCITING EPISODE

After Drill at Presque Isle Last Evening.

A Child on the Back of a Runaway Horse Has a Miraculous Escape from Death.

Several hundred people at Presque Isle last evening witnessed an exciting and fearful runaway, in which a little girl had a most miraculous escape from instant death.

It was after battalion drill, and an orderly, after dismounting, lifted Major Koutzman's little girl—a child of 11 or 12 years of age—into the saddle. His attention was attracted for a moment from the child and the horse moved off.

In a moment he broke into a trot, and a soldier standing near by made an ineffectual attempt to catch the now somewhat frightened animal.

The dash the soldier made at the animal seemed to scare him, and he moved off on a mad gallop.

Away down through the orchard, under the trees he ran in his wild career, and women, and even men closed their eyes lest they should see the little one dashed to pieces against a limb of a tree, or trampled to death under the flying feet of the fleeing and now thoroughly frightened animal.

A dozen men ran out from the lines from as many different points as the horse and its white-faced burden flew past and unsuccessfully attempted to head off the horse.

The child jumped in the saddle with every bound, and it was remarkable how she chanced to remain on the animal's back so long.

Women screamed and men shouted, and the horse continued his circling flight under the trees.

The horse gave the short turn and the little one fell in a heap at the foot of a tree. Before the dozen people who ran to render her assistance could reach her, she jumped to her feet, and to the delighted surprise of everyone she faced the paralyzed crowd of on-lookers and made one of the prettiest bows—a la the circus rider—imaginable. She seemed to perform the little courtesy unconsciously, but the people who witnessed the startling episode were too frightened to applaud the brave little child. She walked up the long lines of people and went direct to her father's tent, where it was found that outside of a somewhat severe shock she was uninjured.

It was a performance not on the program, and few who witnessed it will care to have it repeated.

WHERE'S JIM ASHLEY?

Columbus' View of the Congressional Situation

In the Toledo District—The Muss in Which the Sherman Men Find Themselves—To Be!

The Cleveland Plain Dealer of to-day has a special from Columbus which will be good reading in Toledo. There is an important omission, Gov. Ashley being left out in the cold, but that will probably be his position when the convention closes. Here's the special:

The republican factions in the Ninth congressional district find themselves in an embarrassing position. The district is composed of the counties of Lucas, Wood, Fulton and Ottawa, where the Foraker sentiment is conceded to be very strong. There is the usual scramble for office and the congressional prize, the democrats being largely in the minority, is being fought for viciously by the republicans. Representative C. P. Griffin and ex-Mayor J. Kent Hamilton, both of Toledo, were the two leading candidates for the congressional nomination, and the Sherman men, not feeling assured that they could be successful, concluded to support the least obnoxious of the two Toledo gentlemen, both of whom are now and were during the senatorial contest pronounced Foraker men. This gives the Sherman influence to Hamilton, as Griffin is one of the most active and persistent enemies of Century John, whom he despises as the devil does holy water, but the promise of the Sherman men to support Mr. Hamilton has put them in a very embarrassing situation. Dr. Lincoln, of Bowling Green, Wood county, has announced himself as a candidate and demands that the Sherman forces give him their solid support. This he does on the ground that during the late senatorial auction he stood firmly by the Sherman banner, while Griffin and Hamilton were both fighting for Joseph Benson's success. Some of the Sherman managers, among them George Waldorf, have already made positive pledges to Hamilton as the man with whom they might be able to defeat Griffin, not knowing at the time that Dr. Lincoln would lay claim to their support. Just how they will settle the difference is a matter that is now perplexing the more or less able statesmen of the republican persuasion who seek to run the political machine of the district. The division in Lucas, which is sure to be the result of the candidacy of Griffin and Hamilton, will divide the vote of the county and make it possible for one of the other counties to nominate a candidate. This condition of affairs gives the friends of Dr. Lincoln ground to hope for success and because of the two candidates representing the Foraker faction the Shermanites may be able to walk away with the nomination in one of his strongholds.

Oh old or young, or grave or gay,
Those who now let their teeth decay,
With breath we can't endure;
The thought their after life will haunt,
That they neglected SOZODONT,
That would have kept all pure.

THE ST. CECELIAS

Will Take Important Part in Entertainment

Of the Delegates to the Y. M. C. B. A. Convention Next Month—A Resume of Their Society.

"There is always a woman at the bottom of it." Yes, and there is just as often one at the top, though one don't hear quite so much about that. Still, it is a pretty well recognized fact that in order to accomplish any undertaking successfully, the benign influence, quick wit and unfailing tact of women must be secured. The gallant gentlemen who compose the membership of the Young Men's Catholic Benevolent society, seemed to have realized this when they undertook the entertainment of the mammoth delegation that will be in attendance at the Y. M. C. B. A. convention, which opens in Toledo, Wednesday morning, August 17. They made haste to secure the assistance and co-operation of the ladies of the St. Cecelia society, and these ladies will do the lion's share toward the entertainment.

The convention opens Wednesday morning, August 17, at Rev. Dr. Quigley's church, and it is said that the music to be rendered on this occasion will be the finest ever heard in Toledo. There will probably be a business session following this, and the delegates will then be conveyed around the city and to the asylum in carriages. In the evening a moonlight excursion will be given on the City of Toledo, and beside the regular delegation it is expected that excursions will be here from Sandusky, Findlay, Dayton, and numerous other towns. On Thursday evening the delegates will be banqueted at Memorial hall. All the arrangements are not completed, but they will be at the meeting of the society next Tuesday evening.

The St. Cecelia society, I. C. B. U., No. 531, was organized in February, 1888, with about 50 members. It was originally organized as an auxiliary to the I. C. B. U., but later became an independent organization, under the name of St. Cecelia council, No. 1, Women's Benevolent Union of America. The first president was Mrs. S. I. Moore; vice president, Mrs. Ella Higgins; treasurer, Miss Kate Conlisk. After running for awhile as an independent organization, it became again, according to the original design, an auxiliary to the I. C. B. U., and is so to-day, with a list of nearly 300 active members, a splendid financial condition and the following able corps of officers: President, Miss Della Mansuy; first vice president, Mrs. Fry; second vice president, Miss Hirst; corresponding secretary, Miss Kate Conlisk; financial secretary, Miss Marooney; treasurer, Miss Ella Higgins.

MR. HYATT'S REMARKABLE FIND.

This Story from Connecticut is Good Enough to be True.

Norwalk, Conn., July 28.—Ex-United States Treasurer James W. Hyatt, who is summering at Roton Point, lost $500 in greenbacks while on his way home from a stroll last night. He discovered his loss just before retiring, and although it was midnight and dark as pitch he lighted a lantern and sallied forth on a hunt for the missing treasure.

Inch by inch he went over the ground, but without avail, and was about to abandon the search when he heard a wagon approaching. The occupants, attracted by the light, stopped and inquired the way to South Norwalk, and as Mr. Hyatt stepped up to the wagon to give the desired information he laid his hand on the front wheel. His hand came in contact with a bunch of paper, and holding up the lantern he beheld his missing roll of greenbacks. Investigation disclosed that the roll had been caught in a little crack in the tire, and was thus carried right into the owner's hand.

HANDING BACK THE CASH.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 28.—Mr. Hoyt, attorney for defaulter Dann, has handed over to the state banking department $55,000 worth of property to apply on his defalcations. This makes something over $100,000 that Dann has restored since his arrest.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

North Collins, N. Y., July 28.—John H. Van Valkenburg, ex-superintendent of the Thomas Orphan asylum for indigent Indian boys and girls, who was arrested at Brockport on Monday, was brought here yesterday and arraigned on the charge of immoral practices.

FROM HONOLULU.

The Islanders Again Flirting with Uncle Sam.

San Francisco, July 28.—By the steamer Australia, which arrived from Honolulu to-day, it is learned that on the 9th inst. Wilcox introduced a resolution in the house of representatives providing for the appointment of a committee of five members to visit Washington and ascertain the disposition of the United States government in regard to Pearl harbor, and in regard to some reparation due the Hawaiian government for damages inflicted by the McKinley bill, and also to negotiate for the cession of Pearl harbor for adequate compensation, and to endeavor to obtain closer relations with the United States.

The resolution was made the order of the day for the 14th, when Wilcox withdrew it until a more opportune time.

FOUR YEARS OF DROUTH.

Brownsville, Tex., July 28.—A petition signed by leading citizens of this place has been forwarded to many newspapers making a strong appeal to the people of the country for assistance, made necessary by the four years' drouth. Families in some parts of the country are said to be in pitiable condition, having only cactus and mesquite beans to eat.

AN OILER.

Upper Sandusky, O., July 28.—(Special)—The Upper Sandusky Oil company has drilled in an oiler on the Still farm, 3 1-2 miles north of town, that is flowing 200 barrels per day. It lies between No. 7 and No. 4, two old-time gas roarers.

SENT TO PERSIA.

Washington, July 28.—The president sent to the senate yesterday the nomination of Watson S. Speery, of Delaware, to be minister resident and consul general to Persia.

Handy for travelers is Simmons Liver Regulator in powder. It can be carried in the pocket.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Madison, W is., July 28.—Fire yesterday almost totally wiped out the little town of Dane station, ten miles northwest of here on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. The loss is about $30,000.

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK

Baby's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, and they could do nothing for him. Then we went for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he doctored him for two weeks, and he got worse all the time; and then I took him to Jackson, to a doctor who attends especially to skin diseases and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the CUTICURA REMEDIES any way; did not have any idea they would do any good, but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well and not a spot on him. His hair began growing right off, and we thought it would always be bald-headed. There was not a spot on his whole body, face and head, only his nose and eyes but what was as raw as beef-steak. So poor there was not anything but bones and so weak he could raise neither hand nor head.

FOREVER.

Never, no, never,
Must I look in his eyes,
If I would forget him,
And cease to regret him,
This side of the skies.
Never to stand
In reach of his hand;
Never to feel
His casual glance
Turn upon me;
But always to steal
From the bliss of that trance,
And seek to be free.

Never to hear him,
Nor strive to be near him,
But always to stay
From his presence away;
To feel it my place
To turn from his face,
To the sound of his voice never listen:
Never to see his eyes glisten
In smiles or in tears,
All the desolate years
That for me are waiting.
To feel, as time goes,
That life's miserable throes
Are only creating
A love all the deeper;
That I am the reaper
Of bitter, bare fields.
Let me rest, then, death's sleeper—
For surely death yields,
In his passionless kiss
Something better than this.

And this is my fate;
Should I not fly him,
Should I stay by him,
Each day were the gate
To a fuller despair.
Yet can I bear
Never to see him,
Always to flee him?
All my soul melts * * *
I must see him, then, never,
Dear Saviour, or else
I must love him forever.

There has almost always in English history been some one industry that was supposed to be king. In the middle ages it was the growth and export of raw wool; last century it was the woolen manufacture itself; early in this century and down to a very late date cotton was king; more lately, since the beginning of the railway and steamship era, it has been coal and iron.

M. Alphonse Daudet, the French novelist, has apparently no great belief in the advantages of literature as a profession. His advice to young people who come to him for his opinion as to the advisability of giving themselves up altogether to letters invariably is: "Stick to your profession, and if you have it in you to write anything real good, you will always find time to do it."

A dog is refractory to the inoculation of the tuberculosis of birds, but quickly succumbs to that of mankind. Hence MM. The result of their experiment is to prove that after inoculation by bird tuberculosis a dog becomes refractory to human tuberculosis.

Mayalipuram, India, is graced with seven of the most remarkable temples in the world, each of these unique places of worship having been fashioned from solid granite bowlders. The "Hevesa-Goda-Cla," the largest of the seven, is three and a half stories high, and its outlines semble those of an Atlantic steamship. The inside of the bowlder has been chiseled away until the walls do not exceed eight inches in thickness.

The German Emperor is anxious to build a cathedral at Berlin which shall rival that of Cologne, but he finds that everybody is opposed to spending 10,000,000 marks in that way. The Schloss has had many restorations of late which are said to have been carried out in a very inartistic manner, and the designs offered for the monument of William I. are most unsatisfactory. The Prussian legislature has angered the emperor by its opposition to the cathedral plan.

Alternate wires of copper and zinc are run around the trunk of a tree, at a distance of about half an inch apart. The casual caterpillar begins to mount the trunk of the tree and unlimbers himself with the confidence and vigor born of an impending feast. Presently he reaches the copper wire, pokes his nose over it, and lets another kink out of his backbone. Half an inch further up his front feet strike the zinc, the circuit is completed, and the unfortunate larva is a martyr to science.

Miss Webster, of Boston, is an artistic woodcarver. She is the sister of Albert Webster, the writer, who was to have married Una, the daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne, and whose unfortunate death on a voyage of health was soon followed by that of his betrothed. Miss Webster five years ago was thrown on her own resources. She had studied painting and possessed the usual accomplishments of a woman. None of these seemed available for bread-winning, so, having a fondness for tools, she concluded to fit herself as a woodcarver.

About six months ago, an Indian named O-we-o, of the Umatilla reservation in Oregon, was killed by a railroad train. Some time previous to his death he had borrowed $20 from a bank in Pendleton, giving his note secured by the name of another Indian, She-wa-wa. O-we-o's wife, Lucy, skinned dead sheep found on the ranges during the winter and spring, and hustled hard in other ways until she had scraped together about $25. Last week she went to the bank and paid her husband's note, and also insisted on paying the interest to the astounded cashier. The bank refused to accept the interest.

HANGING THE PICTURE.

"Henry, will you help me to hang this picture? I do not know where to drive the nail so that it will be firm. I want it driven about there," she added, holding the broomhandle against the wall to mark the place.

"Just so. Now, Mrs. Wilson, I suppose you imagine I will fly up and alight on the wall like a measly fly, or how do you expect me to get up there?" he asked.

"I suppose, if you were not so very disobliging, you would get a table to stand on. I declare, I do wish you had a wife like Mrs. Brown to deal with. She said only the other day that she would like the handling of you for a short time—"

"She would, would she? The old hen! Do you know what I would do if I had a wife like her? I would make her sit in a chair in the corner, and ask leave of me to speak or move. That is what I would do, Mrs. Wilson. Do you understand?" he roared, and he slapped his hands together, walking backward and forward in front of his wife, while he occasionally stopped and shook his fist before her face.

"There, Henry, get the table. If Mrs. Brown were your wife you would do just as Mrs. Brown commanded," was her reply.

"I would eh?" he yelled, slamming the table against the wall, and, turning to his wife, he continued: "I would run my own house if the queen of England were my wife!"

"Get up on the table and drive that nail," she said.

"There is no woman on earth that can order me around," he growled, as he climbed up on the table.

"Can you tell where the studding is by hammering on the wall?" she asked.

"A man or woman who does not know enough to do that should be entered in Mrs. Brown's class. If that woman ever comes inside of my house I will kick her out—Yes, kick her out! Do you hear, Mrs. Wilson? I will kick her out!" he yelled, and swung the hammer around his head and danced a few steps of the Sioux war dance.

"For goodness sake, drive that nail. You will never kick her out while I am here."

"What would you do if I should?" he asked, leaning forward toward his wife.

"I would send you to the barn," she replied.

"Before I would desert my own domicile and seek refuge in the barn the house would have no women folks in it," he roared, throwing the hammer at the picture, but fortunately missing it. "Now, by the old Mosaic law—"

"Henry, if you don't quit acting so foolish, you will fall," said Mrs. Wilson.

"By the eternal Jehoshaphat—"

He stepped too near the edge of the table, and over it went. He caromed against the book case and rolled under the dining table.

"Did you hurt yourself?" cried Mrs. Wilson.

"It serves me right for trying to do anything that you have any hand in fixing up. I suppose there is not a table in the house with four legs to it," he said, limping to the table and hurling it across the room.

"I might have known better than to ask you to do anything," she said pulling the table back to the wall. "If I had done it myself in the first place, it would have been done now."

"All you need to be a full-fledged carpenter is to have a chalk line around your neck, and a striped apron with pockets for nails. Give me that hammer! I will drive that nail or unjoint a shoulder!" he ejaculated, snatching the hammer from her hand and bounding on the table.

He tapped the wall backward and forward, listening attentively.

"There she is! Now give me the nail!"

"Are you sure, Henry?"

"Sure as though I could see it," he replied, holding the nail ready to strike.

He struck the nail, driving it through the plaster, and the hammer came down on his thumb and forefinger.

Uttering a yell, he dropped the hammer on his toe, which prolonged the yell into a roar. With his thumb and finger crowded into his mouth, his foot in the other hand, and his eyes squinted half-shut, he was the picture of abject misery.

"That is about what I thought. I do not believe you know how the studding should sound," she said.

"Madam, I suppose you imagine it should sound like a bass drum, or pounding on the bottom of a cheese vat," he retorted, and after blowing his finger he resumed sounding the wall.

"I will bet a national bank to a fresh-water clam that I hit a post this time," he said, driving the nail through plaster and into space.

"There, Anna, that settles it! There are no posts in this side of the house. And before the sun goes down to-morrow I will have men at work putting in some. For my part, I am unable to see what keeps it from sliding together like an old stove pipe," he said, jumping off the table and eying the wall suspiciously.

Mrs. Wilson climbed on the table and drove the nail into an upright the first time.

"There!" she said, eying the nail critically.

"You undoubtedly think that nail is in a post; but let me tell you it is not, as I examined that whole side, and I know positively there is not an upright post there."

"Nevertheless, the nail is in the post," she said.

"Anna Wilson, you are no more intelligent than the ordinary mortal; and when you try to tell me that by simply standing on the table, with a hammer in one hand and a nail in the other, you can produce a battery or electric circuit strong enough to materialize wood where none exists, I rise to a point of order."

"If you would rise and display a little good sense, and raise some potatoes, it would go farther toward keeping a family."

"Madam, you will wrench your intellect if you keep up the present strain on your brain for any considerable time," he retorted.—New York Weekly.

RAPID ACQUAINTANCE.

Mudge: "Judge Billgus is a remarkably easy man to get acquainted with, don't you think?" Yabsley: "I never noticed it." Mudge: "He is, though. I hadn't known him for over an hour before I borrowed a dollar from him, and inside of the next hour we got so well acquainted that he refused to lend me another."—Indianapolis Journal.

LIVED IN A KENNEL.

An Old Woman Exciting Curiosity.

Officials of Cincinnati Interesting Themselves in What the Children Call a Witch.

Cincinnati, July 28.—(Special—Chief Deitsch has been at work investigating a peculiar story that reached his ears yesterday.

Out on Baum street, between Third and Fifth, is a large tenement house, occupied by severeal families.

On the first floor fronting Baum street is a grocery kept by a man named Weber, who also is the landlord of the house.

In the rear is a small shed about the size of a dog kennel. In this place, which is barely large enough for a person to turn around in, it is said that a human being exists.

The person is a woman about 80 years of age, who is a mystery to every one in the neighborhood. She pays $1 per month for the place, it is alleged, but where she gets her money no one knows. Her name is unknown, except that she is called Margaret, and that all efforts to get anything from her prove futile.

She has liveed there for some time and seems contented. She has a little stove in the place, a greasy, squeaky bench and a pile of straw in the corner for a bed.

Her food consists chiefly of mush, which she eats regularly three times a day.

The woman is the talk of the neighborhood, and the children look upon her with awe. When she hobbles out they run from her in terror. Old and wrinkled, with matted gray hair, she presents an appearance that is anything but assuring.

She has been nicknamed "The Witch," and all sorts of stories are afloat about her wonderful dealings with things that are dark and mysterious.

What puzzles everybody is where she spends her time during the day.

When daylight breaks she eis out, and after eating her porridge she hobbles down the long flight of stairs and starts cityward. Where she goes no one knows. About sunset the old creature can be seen dragging her weary limbs along Baum street toward her place of habitation.

With great difficulty she climbs back to the little shed, which she enters and fastens the door upon teh inside. This is the last seen of her until the next day. This routine has been kept up by her for some time.

Not a word is spoken by her to any one, and all advances are met by a frown.

THE LIGHTNING PLAYED.

Upper Sandusky, O., July 28.—(Special)—Upper Sandusky was subjected yesterday to two of the most thrilling electrical storms known hereabouts for years. Both were of short duration, and the rain-fall was light, but the lightning flashed in rapid succession, and the batteries of the heavens kept up a cannonading that was simply deafening. The thunder claps resembled bursting of mighty bombs, and seemed only a few yards distant.

LUMPY-JAWED CATTLE.

Secretary Rusk Interested in the Treatment Experiments.

Chicago, July 28.—Secretary Rusk arrived at the Grand Pacific hotel, having come to Chicago in connection with an experiment in which he takes a lively interest and which he is now preparing to try on a large scale in the treatment of the disease known as lumpy-jaw, or actinomycosis in cattle.

This disease is caused by a fungus which attacks various organs of the body and which, when it causes swellings on the head, is known in this country as lumpy jaw. It is quite common in some parts of Europe as an affection of the tongue and has recently been treated successfully by the internal administration of iodide of potassium.

It has not been tried in the form of the disease known as lumpy jaw until within the last two months, when one of the inspectors of the bureau of animal industry made an experiment in which it proved very successful.

The secretary now expects to have this treatment tested on two hundred head of cattle affected with lumpy jaw, so as to determine whether is will cure in all cases, or if not in all cases, what proportion can be successfully treated. The iodide of potassium is given in doses of from one to three drachms, dissolved in a pint of water.

It is best administered, too, before feeding the cattle, and a dose should vary according to their size and weight.

If this treatment proves as successful as Secretary Rusk expects, it will enable the farmers of the country to cure their cattle when the disease first appears, and thus entirely prevent the loss which now occurs from it.

This treatment is safe and very simple and can be applied without danger by any farmer.

The effect of medicine in doses of this size is to cause some catarrh, coughing, and also peeling off of the skin, but this does not lead to any bad results and should cause no uneasiness. Improvement is generally noticed within ten days after beginning the use of the medicine, and a cure may be expected within a month.

Secretary Rusk is also interested in extending a microscopic inspection of pork.

The demand for inspected pork is continually increasing, and as it brings about one-half a cent a pound more in American and British markets than the uninspected, there are numerous demands for inspection.

The packing season begins in October and the secretary desires to have his force in condition to inspect a much larger number of carcasses than during the last season.

The markets of Denmark, Germany, Austria, France, Spain, and Italy have been open to inspected pork during the last year, and it requires a very large quantity to supply them. The indication is that hereafter there will be a very considerable demand for inspected pork in the markets of other countries as well as those which will only take the inspected article.

Since the inspection began, the price of hogs has been gradually increasing, and it is estimated that the farmers of the country will receive about one cent a pound more for hogs marketed this year than they would have received had there been no inspection.

The secretary feels much encouraged by the marked success which has attended the meat inspection, as, when he first proposed the plan, it was considered by many an impracticable and visionary scheme and one which could only end in failure.

Both the pork and beef inspection have gone on smoothly, and have been carried out without delaying the operations of the packing establishments and without any friction between the packers and the department.

It is now certain that inspection meets the approval of both the producers and the consumers, and that it must be extended as rapidly as possible until the entire meat product of the United States is inspected at the time of slaughter.

WHAT A TIME THEY'LL HAVE.

The Socialist Idea of a Perfect Government.

Paris, July 28.—A party of socialists in this city are endeavoring to organize a socialist colony on the lines of Fournier's "Phalansterium," or farm. The prime movers in the affair are Messrs. Roldes, Briois and Cambier. The two first named are young men of comfortable middle class families, who have joined the socialist movement from conviction.

M. Chambier is a self-educated workingman who has long been a follower of Karl Marx.

They intend to enter into negotiations with the government of Paraguay for a strip of land smaller than the area on which Paris is built, and should they be successful they will embark for South America at the head of a band of 400 colonists, male and female—the number of women being proportioned to that of the men "so as to avoid crimes of passion," according to the terms of the prospectus.

But the intending emigrants have no funds, and in order to pay their passage out and buy land and machinery they need at least $200,000.

They therefore make an eleemosynary appeal to all philanthropists and political economists, as well as to their rich socialist friends, promising to found a democracy which shall eclipse all past, present and future models of the kind. Everybody will have to work—chiefly at agriculture—profits will be divided, and both citizens and citizenesses will meet once a month to discuss the affairs of the little commonwealth.

A very wealthy Mexican made his fortune by collecting and shipping cochineal bugs to paint and dye manufacturers.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

HIS TASTE IS ALL RIGHT.

The Only Trouble Is That He Lives in the Wrong Locality.

The eating a traveler gets among the mountains of Kentucky is not always the exact thing he would choose if left to the dictates of his own taste, but he must put up with it or go empty. One June day, after a rough ride of 30 miles and no dinner, I pulled up in front of a house to make inquiries as to entertainment for man and beast for that night. The proprietor of the place was sitting on a woodpile by the gate.

"What are the chances for something to eat and a place to sleep?" I asked, after the usual greeting.

"Come fur?" he answered.

"Thirty miles."

"Whar from?"

"Beattyville."

"Come from the Blue Grass?"

"Yes, left Winchester a week ago."

"Live down that way?"

"Yes, when I am at home."

"I used to live down in the Blue Grass myself," he said, with a reminiscent pleasure in his eyes. "Lived down thar till I was 21, married a gal up in these parts and come up here to live. She owned this farm. I didn't own a durn thing in the Blue Grass," and he winked slyly. "But git down and come in. I reckon we kin fix you. Hitch your hoss to the fence. Want something to eat, do you?"

"I should say so," I replied as I obeyed his instructions.

"How'd a fine fried chicken with flour gravy strike you?"

"Plumb center," I replied in the vernacular.

"That's Blue Grass victuals, ain't it?" he asked, with an appetizing laugh. "And I reckon you ain't objectin' to some nice hot biscuits, flaky and white, with honey onto 'em and a piece of briled ham that ud make your mouth warter?"

"Well, hardly," I said, as the pleasant vision the man spread out before me began to tickle my palate.

"Good cup of coffee ain't bad, nuther, is it?" he went on, "and waffles throwed in fur good measure, and then taperin' off on a big sasser full of fresh strawberries swimmin' in cream."

"Don't talk about it," I protested; "I'm hungrier than a wolf. Let me get at it."

My host's face fell, and there were almost tears in his eyes.

"Talk's all there is to it, mister," he said, mournfully. "It uster be that away in the Blue Grass, but we don't git nothin' but corn bread and salt pork up this away."

I presume he saw the disappointment in my face and that I was about to express it vigorously, for he threw up his hands appealingly.

"Don't say a word, mister," he pleaded; "ef I didn't get a chance sometimes to talk about the kind of fillin' fit for a man to put inside of himself, I'd been a dead man 25 years ago."

And I didn't say a word.—Detroit Free Press.

LIVE MATTER WANTED.

The Clairvoyant Must Not See Through Chestnutty Spectacles.

The lady who entered the apartments of the fortune teller shortly before noon had red hair and an air of reserve force that was very striking. It was evident that the business on hand was of the deepest moment to her, inasmuch as her eyes had a fixed expression and her thin lips were firmly set. With majestic mien she strode into the inner room, seated herself stiffly and extended her hand to the clairvoyant.

"Reveal to me," she loftily directed, "my future."

The fortune teller darted a swift glance into the strong face before her and bent attentively over the outstretched palm.

"It is very plain," she quietly observed, "that you will be married twice."

The brow beneath the clustering auburn curls contracted in a frown.

"Yes," the clairvoyant continued, "there is a distinct break in the line of Hymen. You are destined to bless two men with your wifely love."

"Two?"

The red-haired lady's tone was hard and incisive, suggesting a trace of skepticism.

"Ah, yes. The first husband will die under sad circumstances, but you will be consoled and made happy in the devotion of the second.

It seemed as if the ruddy tress which had escaped from the elaborate coiffure and depended witchingly beside the shell-like ear was trembling, but it might have been the play of the dancing sunlight.

"But I will make sure."

THE TALE OF A TAG.

A woman not a thousand miles from Richmond was, without doubt, the most flurried female (last Sunday) in seven counties when she discovered, after coming out of church, that her brand new hat was adorned with a tag, whereupon was inscribed the legand: "Reduced to $2.75."—Richmond Review.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 194,311 bu., and at five other western points 642,794 bu., aggregating 837,105 bu. On the corresponding Thursday in 1891 the receipts were 1,030,383 bu., with only 70,671 bu. of northwestern wheat.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 129,893 bu., with flour to an aggregate of 230,000 bu. Export of corn 143,721 bu. and of oats 10,-997 bu.

The Markets To-Day.

The opening of English markets is unfavorable. London and Liverpool are both lower on wheat and Liverpool is lower on corn.

It has been raining to-day over the corn belt and with the high temperature the conditions are as favorable as possible for corn.

To-day Chicago dealers are urging purchasers on this break occasioned by the timely rains.

By the way of Chicago comes the report of a frost last night in the extreme northwest and over the Canadian line. So it goes. Hot winds yesterday and frost the next.

The wheat markets in this country opened weak this morning, and prices broke off about 1-2c east and west, but cold weather talk in the northwest imparted a later firmness. A rumor prevailed that the house at Washington had passed a resolution to adjourn next Saturday. It is doubtless unfounded, but it had its effect on prices in view of the possible postponement of the Hatch bill.

The wheat rankers east and west close with the early loss generally a little more than recovered.

Corn also opened weak and closed lower.

Foreign markets are reported closing lower.

In New York August wheat closed at 83 1-4c, a loss of 1-4c; September unchanged at 84c. August corn at 55 3-8c, a loss of 3-8c; September at 54 3-4c, a loss of 1-4c. August oats, 35 1-4c, a loss of 1-8c.

In Chicago August wheat closed at 77 3-8c, and September at 77 5-8c, a gain on each of 1-8c. August corn at 49 1-4c, a loss of 3-4c. September at 48 7-8c, a loss of 5-8c. July oats at 31c, steady.

In Toledo the market for wheat opened weak and at a decline of 5-8c on the basis of the August future. Later the firmness imparted by the conditions above noted carried prices upward to closing, on July of 1-2c loss, August 1-8c and September 1-4c. On the call September wheat sold at 79 3-8c. After the call July sold at 79c and closed at 79 1-4c sellers. August sold at 78 3-4c and closed at 79 1-4c sellers. September sold at 79 1-4c and closed 79 1-2c.

Cash wheat was in only fair request, except for No. 3 opening 3-4c lower and closing with sellers at 1-2c loss. No. 2 soft sold at 79c and at close the market was 79 1-4c sellers. SENSATIONAL.

The Evidence in the Bower Investigation.

Proceedings Continue This Afternoon Before the Board of Revision.

City Solicitor Read has the biggest kind of a sensation to spring in the Bower investigation case this afternoon.

Neither Mayor Emmick nor Mr. Coleman were on hand at 2 o'clock, the hour set for the proceedings to re-open.

"I will go on without them," Mr. Read said, "unless they soon show up."

"Have you secured any new evidence?"

"Plenty of it."

"Anything of special importance?"

"Well, I should call it sensational, but more than this I shall not say until the witness goes on the stand."

There are about eight witnesses yet to be summoned.

It is understood that one of Bower's clerks will have an interesting story to tell this afternoon.

CHANGE of LIFE whether in early girlhood or later on in adult years of the gentler sex is considered a dangerous and momentous period. Passed safely it means everything which is bright and beautiful, otherwise it may mean perpetual ailing, intense suffering, perhaps Death now and then an Insane Asylum. It was after many years successful experience as a practising physician and constant study of the subject that I put up in popular form to be sold through the druggists, my remedy known as

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon

and Cleansing Wash for the cure of all Female Complaints, no mattter from what cause. Without charge I answer all letters from those who wish advice on this most important subject; and furthermore I send two bottles free of Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon in this way any lady may assure herself of its great curative qualities before going to the expense of buying from the drug store.

Dr. Marchisi: Dear Sir—Ten years ago I saw your advertisement in one of our papers, and learned that I could be cured, so I procured one bottle of your Catholicon. UNEXPECTED REVENGE.

How a Small Boy Got Even With a Newsboy Who Worried Him.

Any one could see that they were "pa, ma and son,' and that this was their first ferryboat trip. They walked just ahead of me, going up the steps, says a writer in the New Orleans Picayune. The first thing they did was to go all over the boat, asking questions of everybody. I kept them in sight. When at last they took seats on the rear guard I sat down near them. By that time we were half way across the bay.

"Lands! What er stream!" exclaimed ma, looking at the stretch of water between us and Oakland.

"Wouldn't be much fun eff we upset," remarked the son.

"Gracious! I never thought uv that," exclaimed ma in a startled voice.

"Ever hev accidents?" asked pa, looking toward me.

"Not often," I said; "and if there should be they are always there." I pointed to the life preservers that were hanging above us.

They all three looked.

"What air they?" asked ma, curiosuly.

I explained. The trio arose to get a nearer view. Pa took one of the life preservers down.

"Well, now, "exclaimed ma, "how on airth would you git inter it?"

Pa read the printed directions pasted on the outside very slowly.

"Let's jist try her on," suggested ma, eagerly; "here, son, you turn around here."

There was a feeble remonstrance on the son's part, to which not the slightest attention was paid. In a few moments he was arrayed in a life preserver to his parents' intense satisfaction.

"Jist git down another one, pa," said ma. "I'll see if I can put it on."

After a good many struggles, she succeeded in doing so. "Now, pa," she said, complacently, "you try one."

Nothing loth, pa obeyed, and soon he stood proudly beside her.

"'Spose we jist keep 'em on till we lan'," suggested ma.

This they agreed to.

"No knowin' what'll happen," pa said, significantly.

And there they sat until the ferry landed, totally oblivious to everything but their own satisfaction—so glad that they were prepared for anything that might happen.

As I left the ferry they were helping each other take off the life preservers.

Mrs. Rudd has been painfully ill, of cancer, for many long and weary months, and her friends can scarcely mourn that she is at rest. She was cared for at the Protestant hospital a portion of the time.

A collie dog that is passed all over England by the railway guards has collected as much as $25,000 a year for a charitable institution. The collie carries a money bag on his collar and with a pleasant look and a wag of his tail invites stranges to drop a coin in the slot. With another wag he expresses his thanks, and trots off to stop in front of some one else.

A little mud-fish recently discovered in marshes near San Francisco is called the "Gillichthys." It is from six to eight inches long and has peculiar habits. It digs a hole in the muddy bank of a tidal creek, at the bottom of which it sits and meditates, being kept wet by the percolation of the water through the surrounding mud. It feeds on small crustaceans largely. Its mouth is about one-third the length of its body.
